3-Way GOP Mayoralty Battle Looms

Vaughn Obtains Petitions

Wright Seen Entering Race

By GEORGE COMINOS

The Republican mayoralty race in Mansfield showed signs today of developing into a three-sided battle, while Charles O. Anglin is prominently mentioned as the Democratic standard-bearer.

It was reported the primary fight will see Mayor Roy W. Vaughn, First Ward Councilman Thomas B. Wright, and former Mayor William J. Locke seeking the Republican nomination.

Mayor Vaughn yesterday took out a declaration of candidacy at the Board of Elections office, but declined to talk about his intentions.

Asked if that meant he would run for re-election, the mayor replied: "I have taken out a petition."

Also mentioned on the Republican side for the mayoralty nomination is former Councilman Russell Porch.

Anglin is considered the probable Democratic candidate. He was the unsuccessful candidate in the 1947 election fight, won by Vaughn.

Asked today if he was going to run, Anglin replied: "I haven't made up my mind yet."

STILL UNDECIDED

Wright, when asked about the rumor, replied: "Frankly I don't know. I will know in a day or so."

A second candidacy declaration was filed today with the election board by John B. Nicholson, 154 East Second street, who will seek a Democratic nomination for councilman-at-large.

The other declaration has been filed by Paul Bush, president of council, who seeks the Republican nomination for the same post.

Latest rumors about the Democratic lineup have it that Earl K. Troll, present city treasurer, will run for president of council, and Peter Mayer for treasurer. Mayer is employed by the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank.

Petitions have been taken out by R. Y. Davis, Johnny Appleseed junior high school teacher, Michael Mihalick, councilman-at-large, Bartley Bowers and Fred Miller, Fifth ward councilman. Miller and Davis said they will announce later if they're going to run. Davis would presumably run for First ward councilman. Mihalick said he would run for re-election of councilman-at-large.

Mihalick has been mentioned as a Democratic nominee for mayor.

SWIHART MENTIONED

There are reports that another Democratic nominee for a councilman-at-large post would be Nelson Swihart, present Sixth ward councilman, and George Connors would seek the Democratic nomination for Second ward councilman.

Democrats have not yet decided on their candidates for first or third ward councilmen nominees or for city solicitor post, it was said.

City Solicitor C. J. Kalbfleisch and several of the Republican councilmen are expected to seek re-election.

That means that George Kyle and Harry Hollingsworth would seek their party's nominations for councilmen-at-large while Charles Shultz, Second ward and Clifford Knarr, Third ward, would again be the candidates for GOP council nominations.

Wright would seek re-election as First ward councilman unless he asks the mayoralty nomination, it was learned.

Boy, 14, Awaits Jury's Decision

BRYAN — (AP) — Ervin A. Ingle, 14, who confessed slaying an elderly couple, today awaited grand jury action after being bound over by Juvenile Court Judge John H. Pfeiffer.

The boy told police he shot John Gabriel, 63, and his wife, Pearl, 56, last May 5. He was committed to the state bureau of juvenile research which made a sealed report on its findings last month.

Chinese Moving Capital

NANKING—(AP)—A Chinese foreign office spokesman notified world embassies today that the seat of the government was moving southward, presumably to Canton.

The destination of the government was not given in the announcement, which was made a few minutes after the communist radio broadcast the Reds were willing to meet Nationalist peace envoys in Peiping.

The formal foreign office statement said: "With reference to the transfer of the seat of the government southward, the ministry of foreign affairs, in accordance with the decision of the government has this evening, Jan. 25, sent identical notes to foreign embassies and legations in Nanking."

The note followed the failure of the government to get the embassies to move southward when they were notified on Jan. 19 that certain ministries would be moved to Canton.

The formal notice of the government's move was regarded as a further effort in that direction. One official source said the timetable for completing the government's move would run to about the middle of February.

The Red radio broadcast its offer to meet the peace envoys of the government as communist patrols reached the opposite bank of the Yangtze river.

A radio spokesman for the communists said the talks could be held in Peiping as soon as that ancient North China city, taken Saturday by the Reds, "is completely liberated."

He said Acting President Li Tsung-Jen's five-man peace delegation was acceptable to the communists except for one member, Peng Shao-Hsien. Peng was identified by the Red broadcast as a member of the strong rightist clique of the Kuomintang (government) party.

Temperature Drop on Way

Heavy fog enveloped Mansfield and other portions of Ohio early today as a new cold spell moved into the state from the northwest.

The U. S. weather bureau said temperatures would drop below freezing at most points to end threats of further floods caused by the heavy rainfall of the past few days.

Rivers in the southern part of Ohio spilled over their banks, flooded many highways and forced many families to flee their homes. The Ohio river rose above the 42-foot mark this morning but its tributaries were reported falling, International News Service said.

Forecaster C. G. Andrus said some light rain may fall today before the lower temperatures are reached after which scattered snow flurries are expected.

Andrus said the new cold spell would remain for a few days but it will not be too severe. Mansfield's high yesterday was 53; its low, 35.

'Mike' Found Concealed In Jury Chamber

LIMA—(AP)—A concealed microphone attached to sound equipment was found last night in a third floor jury room of the Allen country court house.

The jury room was used by an indicted slayer and his attorney for conferences.

Common Pleas Judge Moran B. Jenkins immediately ordered an investigation.

Jenkins said the microphone was attached to wires leading to an unused second floor storeroom. He said he did not know how long the microphone had been concealed in the jury room.

The microphone was concealed near the floor behind a steam radiator pipe and was attached to wires running behind a section of the baseboard, Jenkins said.

The judge said the wires led to a storeroom usually kept locked. An attachment found on the end of the wires is similar to an attachment used to plug in wire recorders.

STUNTS PORTRAY CHEST SERVICE—Here are four of the six stunts presented at the annual Community Chest dinner last night. Top left, "Bud" Sorenson, YMCA member, portrays, in gilded statue, the archery club of the organization. At the top right a group of Friendly House children give the choric reading, "Let Me Live In a House By the Side of the Road," with interpolations by Sammy Kaye Matthes, at the extreme left. The four scouts at the bottom left are cub scout, Robert Ernst, Robert Calhoun, older scout, Charles Young, eagle scout and Robert Tennant, sea scout. At the bottom right, William Muttersbaugh, member of the blind class at the Salvation Army, tells over the mike about the class outing along Lake Erie last summer. He was the final Salvation Army member to come through the big drum at the rear.

Labor Law Fight Opens

Rent Control Debate Looms

(Compiled From Wire Dispatches)

WASHINGTON — Despite angry Republican protests, the Senate labor committee planned today to open hearings on the Taft-Hartley repealer Friday and limit them to two weeks.

A bill then will be reported to the Senate floor to repeal the Taft-Hartley law and restore the Wagner act of 1935 with whatever amendments the committee "may deem wise."

Originally, Chairman Elbert D. Thomas, (D. Utah,) of the labor committee had talked of holding six weeks of hearings on proposals for a new labor law. But committee Democrats decided otherwise at a meeting last night.

The speedup, presumably dictated by administration leaders, brought cries of "politics" from GOP members of the committee who voted solidly against the plan.

On the question of rent control, Sen. Sparkman (D-ALA) predicted today that congress will cut President Truman's two-year rent control extension bill to 15 months.

Sparkman, chairman of the Senate banking committee's rent and housing subcommittee, forecast extension of rent controls to June 30, 1950.

Agencies Exhibit Their Work

'Stunts' Enliven Chest Meeting

By NITA BRANSON

The Mansfield Community Chest organization staged a different type of annual meeting last night.

Approximately 200 persons attended the dinner session at the Park Avenue Baptist church.

The program was a departure from the usual routine affair in which lengthy reports are made by each of the participating agencies. Last night the reports were brief, and six of the agencies enlivened theirs with "stunts" portraying the work being done by the agencies.

Enthusiasm at the meeting was touched off by community singing led by Maj. William J. Jones, commander of the Salvation Army.

W. E. Slabaugh, president of the Chest, who was re-elected last night, was in charge of the meeting.

Orlo Smith, treasurer, reported that during 1948 total receipts were $122,220. Of this amount $92,000 was disbursed to the various agencies for their programs. Emergency aids to five of the Red Feather agencies totaled $5,461.

Central services, which include administration and campaign expenses, totaled $11,156. Other special expenses were $7,279, making a total in the disbursement column of $118,554. The 1949 balance and

Defenbacher Gets Chance

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Ohio senators will reconsider their refusal to confirm H. D. Defenbacher as state finance director but they declined today to say when. Indications were that it might be tomorrow.

Sen. Edwin F. Sawicki (D-Cuyahoga), one of those balking confirmation last week, relented after what he termed "heavy pressure." He moved last night to reconsider the Defenbacher vote but to leave the motion pending. That means it can be called up for decision at any time.

Sawicki's about-face came on the last day allowed by Senate rules for such action.

City's Debt At New High

Auditor Says Total Now $2,434,050

Mansfield's debt has climbed to the highest point in the history of the city, the annual report released by City Auditor Paul L. Kelley showed today.

As of Dec. 31, 1948, the debt stood at $2,434,050, which is $745,425 above the previous record high in 1927. The lowest figure in the last 32 years was reported in 1944, when the debt fell to $271,700.

The great bulk of the debt is in first and second water works revenue bonds, of which a total of $2,221,000 is outstanding. The bonds were floated for the Clear Fork project.

Broken down, that figure shows there are three separate bond issues. The first, a $800,000 loan, is paying one and one-half per cent interest and will be paid in full in 1962. The second, for $300,000, pays two per cent interest and will mature in 1970.

The largest issue was floated last year when $1,200,000 second mortgage revenue bonds were sold, paying two and three-quarter per cent interest with the last of the bonds to be redeemed in 1972.

To offset the debt, there are the following cash balances: $52,530 in the water works fund; $32,874 in the street repair fund, and $75,390 in the general indebtedness fund.

Commenting on the status of city's finances, Kelley said the street assessment bonds are nothing to worry about "as long as good times remain anad people do not default on payment of their assessments."

As for the general indebtedness, he said, "the city is in fine shape," adding the situation should not be changed except by a vote of the people.

Planes Saving West's Cattle

DENVER — (INS) — Winter's "operation blitz" torpedoed the Rocky Mountain and Great Plains states again today as the air force moved in with planes to stop skyrocketing livestock losses.

Giant C-82 "Flying Boxcars" were pressed into service to drop hay and other feed to an estimated two million marooned and starving cattle and sheep. Food and coal for snow-isolated ranchers also took up plane space.

The one-two punch dealt by the arctic blasts showed no let-up early today after the cold weather and blizzards which began Jan. 2, despite the slight lifting of the sub-zero barrage by a promise of warmer weather.

This Pinball Game Really Got 'Hot'

COLUMBUS — (INS) — A pinball machine got hot today — and burned a $500 building and an unestimated amount of auto parts. A passerby saw flames shooting through the inside of Walter Leslein's service station at Columbus.

Firemen answered his alarm and put out the fire, but not until the station had been gutted and unknown quantities of spark plugs, auto accessories and tires had been destroyed.

Firemen said the pinball machine "blew its top" when nobody was around. They traced the fire to a short circuit in the machine.

Bills Would Boost Aid To Cities

$35,000,000 Jump Possible

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Two proposals to increase state aid to local governments by as much as 35 million dollars a year were sponsored in the house today by the chairman of the house finance committee.

The bills, among the 27 dumped in the house hopper last night, were sponsored by Rep. Anna O'Neil, (D-Summit).

One of them would give local governments a third of sales tax revenues in place of the 12 millions a year they now get from this source. On the basis of collections of about 140 million dollars last year, this would mean about 47 million dollars, or a 35 million dollars a year increase.

Mrs. O'Neil made a bid for small-county support by providing in her measure that each county, regardless of size, would get a minimum of $50,000 a year.

In her alternative proposal, Mrs. O'Neil suggested that the local governments be given 40 per cent of the revenues, or about 56 millions, but in this instance they would return to the state the intangible taxes which now are state collected but go to the county of origin. Since they amount to about 15 millions a year, this would represent an increase of about 29 millions a year.

By contrast, Governor Lausche—of the same Democratic party as Mrs. O'Neil—had stated repeatedly that only four millions is available for increases for local governments, schools, state employes, and all other expenses.

Some other bills introduced in the house would:

Require accident reports to state highway department where damage is $100 or more;

Require employers to provide facilities for cashing paychecks; limit wine and liquor permits to two to any one person, firm or corporation in any county; remove the present $3 license for female dogs and made the $1 fee apply to all.

In the senate new bills would: Provide for urban redevelopment, slum clearance, and payment of a maximum of 10 per cent of the rents by federal housing authorities in lieu of taxes; said to be the administration's slum clearance bill; increase the salaries of common pleas judges by seven cents a person but not to exceed $8,000 a year.

Ohio's Bonus Fund Solvent

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The Ohio veterans' bonus fund can operate for the next six months without issuing additional bonds to raise funds.

State Treasurer D. H. Ebright told the Ohio sinking fund commission the fund had $28,487,000 on Jan. 17 with which to meet future bonus payments to Ohio World War II veterans.

Ebright said interest earned on the fund and a $25,000,000 booster from the legislature in 1947 would give the fund enough money to keep going for six months. Payments to veterans hit the $200,000,000 mark last week.

Allarding Will Take OSR Job

Changes Due On Feb. 1

Appointment of Mansfield reformatory Superintendent Arthur L. Glattke as chief of the Division of Correction, State Welfare Department, was announced today by State Welfare Director John H. Lamneck.

Glattke's new appointment is effective Feb. 1. The new position will pay a salary of $7,500.

At the same time, Judge Lamneck announced that George J. Allarding, present assistant superintendent of the reformatory, will take over as acting superintendent on Feb. 1. Allarding has been assistant superintendent since May, 1947, and has been with the reformatory the past 17 years.

Glattke, Welfare Director Lamneck said, will be the first chief of the division which was set up by the legislature in 1941. The post had not been filled up to this time.

In the new appointment, which will take him to Columbus, Glattke will have charge of all penal and reformatory institutions in the state. He also will have control and supervision of prisoners on parole, the management and control of prison industries, the investigation and supervision of county and municipal jails and workhouses.

Commenting on his appointment, Glattke said: "Governor Lausche and Welfare Director Lamneck have expressed a sincere desire to improve the division of penal welfare. To that end I expect to bend my efforts.

"I am accepting the job with a good deal of hope that we can achieve the goal they have in mind."

BEGAN HERE IN '35

Appointed superintendent of the reformatory on March 1, 1935, Glattke has championed the fight for better penal conditions and has long advocated a classification center where all incoming prisoners could be "screened" according to types of crime and psychopathic tendencies.

During Glattke's 14 years as head of OSR, many improvements, aimed at better morale among the prisoners, have been made under his direction.

Chief among these are:

1. Establishment of an inmate commissary where cigarets, candy, tooth paste and other toilet articles can be purchased by the men.
2. Installation of radios in every cell.
3. Improvement of the schools and curriculum and organization through the progressive method of teaching from texts written at the reformatory.
4. Improved hospital service.
5. A new dining room, termed by Glattke as "one of the finest in this section of the country."
6. Improved honor camp conditions including a new dormitory.

Pianist In Recessional

Gieseking Cancels Tour, Quits U. S.

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Walter Gieseking, German pianist whose American concert tour was cancelled at the last minute because of his alleged pro-nazi sympathies during World War II, left for Paris aboard an Air France airliner this morning.

The 53-year-old Gieseking, acknowledged as one of the world's greatest pianists, cancelled his concert tour last night a few minutes before he was to give his first performance at Carnegie Hall.

A controversy over his admission to this country had raged ever since his arrival here Saturday. He was taken into custody by immigration agents yesterday afternoon when the justice department announced discovery of new evidence of alleged pro-nazi sympathies.

When he arrived here, Gieseking declared he never had been a nazi sympathizer.

"Art has nothing to do with politics," he said.

However, after talking it over with immigration department officials, Gieseking agreed to cancel his concert tour and leave the country.

Ticket-holders already were arriving at Carnegie Hall, where the concert was cancelled. Some 2,000 demonstrators, most of them Jewish war veterans opposing the pianist's appearance in this country, cheered the announcement. Some fist fights broke out between his admirers and those who opposed him, but police dispelled the crowd.

Gieseking was paroled in custody of his manager, Charles L. Wagner, and allowed to stay at the hotel Roosevelt last night. (Wagner is familiar to Mansfielders as the impresario who staged the opera "Rigoletto" here several years ago with the city's own Jane Foltz in a leading role.—Ed.)

"I know two people who will be very happy that I am returning," he declared, "my two daughters, Jutta, 21, and Freya, 17, who are in Germany."

Groups opposing Gieseking's appearance here pointed out that he remained in Germany and in nazi-held territory throughout the war, playing to nazi audiences. They charged he was a member of the nazi "militant league for German culture."

Gieseking played once for Adolf Hitler in 1937, but after the war he was cleared of nazi charges by the military government in Germany. Since the war he has played before American GI audiences in Germany.

President's Motto Is 'Show Me,' Says Writer Eyeing His Career

WASHINGTON — Not hostility to a man or a political party but self-interest and a love of country, compel a citizen who has seen and heard President Truman since he first came to the Senate, to compare his performances, long past and recent, with his professions and his frequent pious intimations.

To those who raise their hands against the healthy skepticism of a man whose motto in life is "Show Me," my answer is Al Smith's test—Look at the record.

For a long time, in fact until the day he hurriedly took the oath on the death of Roosevelt and exclaimed to the reporters, "Pray for me boys; and I mean it", I was indifferent to Mr. Truman. He was a senator with a very bad background.

If he was not an accomplice of an old rogue, who got much of his income in the brass checks of the prostitutes in the Kansas City brothels, then he certainly must have had an adjustable conscience.

Because he knew all there was to know about vice and crime in Kansas City, including booze and narcotics, all controlled and taxed by the underworld satraps of his boss and patron Tom Pendergast.

Yet, when he asked the reporters for their prayers, I thought, here was a home-spun fellow after all, remembering in trouble the little petitions that his mother had taught him and returning to them like a scared child.

In 1948, during the winter, he exclaimed again some homely remark about God Almighty and I noticed that when he said such things in that simple, apparently sincere way, I found myself coming back to him.

A FEW WEEKS ago in Washington he said these things still once again longing for our confidence, cooperation and prayers in a job which he was afraid might be too big for him.

This talk was off the record and the next day in conversation with Tom Clark, his attorney-general, and with Charlie Ross, his secretary, I urged them to get him to say it on some prominent occasion, for publication.

But, finally, when he did say it out loud, in his inaugural address in the Hollywood Grecian mausoleum on the back stoop of the Capitol, I found myself saying to myself as I played fancy licks, cross-handed and every old way, on my typewriter in the public. He is a phoney like Roosevelt with his 'you know and I know' and 'your government', and 'your president'. This 'help me' and 'pray for me' bushwach is an act."

I recognize the type now. You see them out west. Thin-lipped, a hater, a bad man in any fight. Malicious and unforgiving and not above offering you his hand to yank you off balance and work you over with a chair leg, pool cue or something out of his pocket.

I should have tumbled when he persecuted Maurice Milligan, the federal attorney, for sending pendergast to prison; when he stalked and hounded a good citizen for doing his sworn duty.

Ignorance explains some of his contradictions. When he was campaigning for restitution of the Wagner Act he certainly could not have believed that men were free in unions under Wagner's law.

Perhaps he hasn't the moral wisdom of understand that the statements that he made about the Taft-Hartley law were actually lies even though he knew they were false. Maybe he discriminates between common lies and false statements in a campaign.

Yet, in his inaugural speech he cried for relief from "lies and propaganda" and for a era of "truth and sincerity."

Too bad, but that is the kind of fellow Truman is and all the editorials ever to be written in fear of his spite or hope of his forbearance will not change him.

A Damyankee Who Can Pronounce 'Camellia Japonica' Rates as Reb

BAY MINETTE, Ala.—There is one sure fire way for a visiting damyankee to make friends in this section of the south.

All he has to do is open his mouth and say two words clearly.

Camellia Japonica.

Somebody is sure to hear him and say, "You like camellias, stranger?

From then on all the damyankee has to do is admit he even saw a camellia. That is introduction enough. The natives no longer blame him for being born on the wrong side of the Mason and Dixon line. The Dixiecrats don't even hold him entirely personally responsible for what they say Harry Truman is doing to them.

No, sir, stranger, if you like camellias why you're a cousin right away. You're kin folk to these gulf coast flower fans.

And they mean it from the bottom of the stamen to the peak of the pistil. They'll wine you and dine you, and maybe even the hotel clerk will knock ten percent off your bill. He raises camellias, too.

Everybody down this way raises camellias (the aristocrats of southern gardens), if there's space by the house to stick a bush.

Raising the beautiful white and red heart-size flowers is a hobby for tens of thousands, a multi-million dollar industry for a few. The annual camellia shows are almost as impressive as religious festivals.

And during blooming season right now—this whole corner of the southland erupts in lush color.

Bingo and golf don't hold a candle to camellia growing in the small towns. They had a flower show here this week, one of dozens being held in the communities that belt Mobile port. But people from twelve states came to see it.

★

RAISING CAMELLIAS is as popular with the men folks as with women. And the men have their own camellia clubs. Wealthy amateur growers spend thousands of dollars on the hobby.

And it can run into money. A small first-year graft from a desirable variety may cost from $10 to $35. A 12 to 14 foot bush has sold for more than $1,000.

"The trouble is that once a man gets one variety he starts wanting another," said Cly T. Smith, postmaster here. "And that can lead quite a way. Some folks say there are 3,000 varieties, some say 800.

"Nobody really knows for sure, because the same variety has at least twelve names."

Smith, who has grown camellias for fun for 25 years, has 200 varieties himself. One Mobile man who started it as a hobby built his camellias into a million-dollar business. They grow by the million on the bushes here. But in the big cities they fetch up to $3.50 in florist shops.

"But most folks just grow them for pleasure," said Smith. "More men here grow them than play golf. It softens them up, it makes men human who were cold.

'There's something about these flowers that gets you. It seems like once you get started talking camellias you never get through,"

And if the visiting damyankee isn't lazy he'll probably end up in the front yard with a spray gun in his hand, firing side by side at a camellia bush with the grandson of a man whose grandpappy chased the damyankee's grandpappy at Bull Run.

Of course, a man could say, "I hate camellias." But who wants to get rushed out of town on a rail?

County Falls Far Below Blood Quota

Only 91 Show Up To Contribute

A total of 91 pints of blood were donated by Mansfield and Richland county residents when the National Red Cross Bloodmobile was in Mansfield last week, Mrs. Stuart Weaver, blood donor chairman for the county chapter, reported today.

That was 109 pints less than the quota of 200 given the Richland county chapter, but Mrs. Weaver said today that, considering all the obstacles which the Red Cross chapter had to overcome in this first visit, she was pleased with the result.

One hundred and 25 prospective donors had made appointments. Of this number several were rejected because of physical reasons and at least 25 didn't show up for their appointments.

OFFERED NO EXCUSES

Several of the 25 called to say they had had colds or other emergency excuses but most of them just didin't appear or call. That is a situation which particularly dismays the Red Cross, Mrs. Weaver said.

"You can readily see why we should schedule more than the actual number needed," Mrs. Weaver commented.

In addition to the number scheduled, three or four dropped in casually without any appointments and were accepted. Nine donors from the Westinghouse plant, not scheduled, helped to bring the total as high as 91, Mrs. Weaver said.

"Before the Bloodmobile comes to Mansfield again, we hope to have the program much better organized and better publicized," Mrs. Weaver said.

The next appearance of the Bloodmobile will be on Feb. 23 and 24, she said.

Crash Victim's Rites Set

Private funeral services for Mrs. Betty Bruce Girard, 41, wife of O. A. Girard of Loudonville, N Y., and daughter of Mr and Mrs. Lafe Bruce, 182 Marion avenue, will be conducted at the Finefrock funeral home Wednesday at 2 p. m. by Rev. J. Frank Stewart, pastor of the Central Methodist church. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

Mrs. Girard was killed in an auto accident near Albany, N. Y. Sunday evening.

Surviving, besides her husband and parents, are one brother, Harold A. Bruce of Mansfield and two sisters, Mrs. William Daisley of Mansfield and Mrs. F. Lionel Culp of Lexington.

Friends may call at the Finefrock funeral home. The family has requested that flowers be omitted.

Death Takes F. Finnerty

Frank C. Finnerty, 81, of 444 Woodland avenue, died last night at the Shryrock Rest home following a long illness. Mr. Finnerty had been a resident of Mansfield for the past 50 years and was fireman at the Bowman street school for 15 years.

He was the son of Samuel and Mary Newell Finnerty and was born in Mt. Vernon, Oct. 19, 1867. He was a member of the St. Mark's Lutheran church and Venus Lodge No. 152, F. & A. M.

He is survived by his wife, Britty White Finnerty; son, Lewis Finnerty, of Chicago, and a sister, Mrs. Della Ward, of Brandon, Ohio.

Funeral services will be held at the Jones Memorial Thursday at 2 p. m. and will be conducted by Rev. C. A. Portz, pastor of St. Mark's church. Burial will be in the Ontario Community cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home.

RIOT SCENE—Enraged Zulu natives, each man and boy carrying a makeshift weapon, race through main street of Durban, Africa, to attack an Indian cornered outside post office. Europeans were left strictly alone in the rioting, which claimed more than 100 lives and left a thousand injured in several towns. Zulus rose up in wrath over being mistreated, they claimed, by Indian population.

Scouts Wage Vote Drive

Heated Campaign Looms For Posts

A heated primary compaign with all the trimmings is being waged by Boy Scouts running for the Mansfield Scout congress or president or vice president of the congress, which will convene during national Boy Scout week Feb. 6 through 12, inclusive.

Scout Troops have been subjected to soap-box oratory, com paign issues, and other election promotional schemes.

Each troop will elect one or more members to the congress and all 24 scout units within the city will elect a president and a vice president of the congress.

Scouts nominated for president in the primary election are Charles Brown, Post 2; Charles Young, Post 6; and James Geiger, Troop 18. Scouts Raymond Stretch, Post 2; Gary Haley. Post 6, and Frank Plaut, Troop 18, are slated to run for vice president in the primary.

Man, 54, Dies On Birthday

Fred W. Lauer, 215 Bowman street, died unexpectedly at General hospital Monday afternoon.

Mr. Lauer, who was 54 years old yesterday, became ill at the Tappan Stove company and died shortly after being removed to the hospital.

Mr. Lauer was born Jan. 24, 1895 in Mansfield and had spent his entire life here. He had been employed at the Tappan company for 39 years and was a member of the company's quarter-century club. He was a member of the First Christian church.

Surviving are his wife, Daisey; three sons, Charles, Fred jr., and Robert; two daughters, Mrs. William Hart and Miss Helen Lauer all of Mansfield; three sisters, Mrs. Katherine Kiley and Mrs. Charles Mosier of Mansfield and Mrs. Emma Smith of Bucyrus.

The body is at the Wappner funeral home where services will be held Thursday at 3:30 p. m. in charge of Rev. Ben F. Hagelbarger. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

Engineers To Meet Thursday

F. B. Thomas, of the Thomas Drain Service, Akron, will address the annual meeting of the North Central Society of Ohio Professional Engineers at 8 p. m. Thursday in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. Thomas will speak on clogged drains and the latest scientific means of unclogging them.

Radio Holdings Revealed By Lamb

(Special to News-Journal)

TOLEDO—Edward Lamb, president and treasurer of Unity Corporation, owner of radio stations WTOD and WTRT-FM Toledo, resumed the witness stand today in a Federal Communications commission hearing on use of a broadcasting frequency of 1470 kilocycles which also is being sought by four other applicants.

Lamb's standard broadcast station in Toledo is now using a frequency of 1560 kilocycles but seeks the new wavelength to gain unlimited (24 hour daily) broadcasting rights. His present standard radio. station is limited to daytime operation only.

Lamb is the Toledo lawyer who last summer came under vigorous attack on the floor of Congress as a man "saturated and drenched in communistic writings, associations and affiliations" and who obtained a Mansfield FM radio station construction permit and then voluntarily surrendered it after disclosures about him and the FCC in the News-Journal.

The hearing on radio rights here is being conducted in the Federal building before Mrs. Fannie Litvin, FCC Hearing examiner. It opened yesterday.

Lamb is the last of 10 witnesses to take the stand in favor of granting the license to his Unity Corporation. He began his testimony yesterday and was still on the witness stand when the hearing adjourned at 5 p. m. Yesterday he described his membership in national, civic and fraternal organizations.

The Toledoan, who said he had been a practicing attorney 27 years, testified that he is owner of 95 per cent of the stock of the Record Publishing company which publishes the Erie (Pa.) Dispatch-Herald, and that he owns 1,325 shares, and his wife Prudence has 325 shares in Dispatch, Inc, and Erie, Pa., television licenses.

He also testified that he has 55 shares and his wife 60 shares in Picture Waves, Inc., which holds a Columbus television license. He added that he has a contract for purchase of the remaining shares in the Columbus enterprise.

Lamb also declared on the stand that he owns 24 per cent and his wife 20 per cent of the stock of Heart of Ohio which has applied for FM and AM radio licenses in Columbus, and that he has contracted to sell his stock in the Mansfield Radio company, applicants for a television license at Youngstown, to a group of Youngstown businessmen.

In the recent report of a select committee of the last Congress, FCC radio license grants to Lamb were cited as examples of failure of the commission to properly investigate license applicants.

In the hearing here; foreign language broadcasts over Lamb's station came up for scrutiny and Rev. C. K. Chidester, a member of the Toledo Council of Churches radio committee startled the hearing group by stating that he was not sure that additional time for religious broadcasts is desired by churches because of the time required to prepare programs.

Among other Lamb witnesses were Mrs. Sunne Miller, general manager of stations WTOD-WTRT; Stephen A. Mack, Lamb's law partner; and Richard Levette, president of the Toledo Union Council of the CIO.

Scottish Rite To Hold Party

The Richland County Scottish Rite association will sponsor a ladies' party, dinner and entertainment in the Masonic Temple banquet room Monday night.

Activities will get under way at 6:30 with a dinner. A short business meeting will be held following the dinner, in charge of H. V. Henness, president.

The evening's entertainment will consist of movies of the west, shown by Harry Frietchen; a community sing under the direction of Henry A. Senert, with M. R. Stretch at the piano, and a square dance session under the supervision of Esley Cleckner. Cards will be provided for those who do not care to participate in the square dance.

Paul H. Schultz, secretary, has requested that dinner reservations be mailed to the Temple not later than Friday.

CENSORED—

Recently a Mansfield youngster was overheard by his parents using a word "unbecoming to a boy of nine years," so he was warned that he would be kept home from the movies for an entire month if he ever used the word again. Imagine his parents' surprise the other night when the lad answered the telephone by saying "hay-lo" instead of the customary "hello." When questioned about the new-style greeting, he replied, "I'm not saying that word anymore — I don't want to miss the movies for a whole month!"

RECRUITERS BUSY—

It's recruiting time for General hospital's School of Nursing. This week Miss Jeanette Dowds, clinical instructor, goes to Sullivan, Lodi and West Salem and Miss Lois Guiher plans a trip to high schools in the Willard area. So far, according to Miss Carrie Beal, supervisor of nurses, at least a half dozen girls have signed up for next September classes. Senior girls are being contacted in the area schools.

JUST WONDERING—

Expectant fathers, nervously pacing up and down in the maternity ward waiting room at General hospital, have been scratching their heads over a sign advertising cigars. The sign offers cigars imprinted with "It's a Boy" or "It's a Girl," to be given out by the proud fathers. What's got them stumped is why "Just Married" cigars are advertised along with the other two types.

Expected To Study 28 Cases

6 Substitutes See Service

The January term Richland county grand jury began its session this morning with at least 28 cases on the docket.

The jurors, with Thomas D. Brown, 178 West Second street, as foreman, are expected to be busy about three days.

It was the first session for Prosecutor Harold Lutz since he was returned to office last November. He held the post before he was inducted into the army more than five years. The prosecutor presents the cases to the jury.

Six of the 15 jurors whose names were drawn were not found or were excused from duty this morning before the session opened.

Named to serve for them were Brown, Mrs. Margaret Manz, 54½ Sturges avenue; Mrs. Ann White, 53½ Douglas avenue; Frank L. Kohler, 350 North Townview circle; Albert H. Lewis, 56 Wellington avenue, and D. C. Cole, 424 Glessner avenue.

JURORS LISTED

Others serving on the grand jury are Eva A. Goldsmith, 54 Blanche street; Bertha Burghard, 51 West Prospect street; Edgar Eckert, Shelby; George H. Williams jr., 114 South Diamond street; Katherine Maleska, 458 Wayne street; Florence Taylor, 373 Springmill street; Faye Bond, 36 Sherman avenue; Cassius Woods, 411 Edgewood road, and James W. Brook, Shelby, R. D. 1.

Cases before the jurors involve charges ranging from shooting with intent to wound to pocket-picking and grand larceny.

The jurors will hear evidence against Elmer Treadwell, 21, Harmon avenue, charged with an attack on City Patrolman Glenn Adams with Adams' own police club. The alleged attack took place when the patrolman attempted to arrest Treadwell.

The jurors will make a tour of the county jail and report on its condition to the court.

Plumber Dies at 65

Homer J. Seevers, 65, died at his home, 64 Wood street, Monday afternoon following a four-year illness.

Born Feb. 17, 1883 in Athens county, Mr. Seevers came to Mansfield in 1920. Since then he had owned and operated a plumbing business here. He was a member of the First Methodist church and the Frank H. Marquis lodge, No. 690 F. and A. M.

Surviving are his wife, Bess Seevers; three sisters, Mrs. Alice Reiter of Johnston City, Ill., Mrs. Lena Mourn of Nelsonville and Mrs. Olive Tyler of Marion, and two brothers, Harry Seevers of Barberton and Don Seevers of Mansfield.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Wappner funeral home at 1:30 p. m. Thursday by Rev. C. W. Stoneburner, pastor of the First Methodist church. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

The Frank H. Marquis lodge will hold ritualistic services Wednesday at 7:30 p. m., at the Wappner funeral home.

County Sheep Unit to Dine

The Richland-Huron county Lamb and Sheep Improvement committee last night decided to hold its annual meeting and banquet April 7 at Greenwich.

Bomb Group Organizer Here Ambushed By Indonesians

Maj. R. B. Hall, former commander of Mansfield's 321st Bomb Group, was the leader of a United Nations observation team that was ambushed by Indonesian guerrillas on Jan. 17, the United Press reported today.

The military observation team returned to Batavia yesterday from Central Java, where the attack occurred.

Hall told army officials the guerrillas opened fire on them while the team was traveling with a Dutch convoy from Suakarta along the highway to Jogakarta.

An armored car and a scout car in the Dutch convoy were struck by machine gun bullets, but the white UN jeep, containing Hall and two other observers, raced through without being struck. Hall said no one was injured.

Maj. Hall, who organized the 321st Bomb Group here, went back into active service six months ago.

Tygers and Rams In Road Games Tonight

Boudreau Gets Top Contract

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Lou Boudreau signed a Cleveland Indian contract today that placed him among the highest paid performers in baseball.

The shortstop-manager of the world champion Indians signed a new two-year contract on a straight pay basis—with no attendance bonuses involved.

In terms of cash, it is hard to determine what that will mean but President Bill Veeck of the Indians termed it one of the highest salaries in the history of the game. That would put it up around Bob Feller's reputed $82,000 and the $80,000 Babe Ruth earned one season with the Yankees.

TEAR IT UP

Boudreau has been working under an old contract with one year to run and it is estimated he earned above $50,000 last season. However, Veeck said the old contract was torn up and the new one substituted.

"This is a straight contract," said Veeck. "No bonuses. It is by far the largest straight salary ever offered a player by the club. It makes him one of the highest paid players in baseball history."

Said Boudreau: "I'm very well satisfied."

Williamson Gets Grid Job At Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis. —(AP)— Ivan "Red" Williamson, star end for Michigan in 1932, is returning to Western Conference football warfare—this time as Wisconsin's new $10,000 per year head coach.

His title will be "Professor" Williamson when he arrives Feb. 1 to take over the post held by Harry Stuhldreher for 13 years. Stuhldreher quit as grid coach last Dec. 11, but he remains as Wisconsin's athletic director.

The job of head football coach at Wisconsin carries a full professorship, which means that the coach can be fired only by the board of regents, and even then only after public hearings.

Williamson's selection announced at a special regents meeting in Milwaukee yesterday, came as somewhat of a surprise to the eastern coach. He was among more than a half dozen outstanding coaches who had been considered for the post.

Williamson added he doesn't expect any trouble getting a release from his three-year Lafayette contract, which still has a year to run.

Senior High Seeking To Shake Jinx

The long-standing road jinx of the Mansfield Senior high school basketball team should be disintegrated tonight on the Fremont Ross hardwood.

The Tygers have been unable to win in their last five "road" outings but should have little trouble with the weak Fremont aggregation. Ross has won only two games this season and has never looked impressive. The victories were over Toledo Scott and Tiffin Columbian.

With a shortage of veteran material on hand, Coach Al Ziemke has been forced to do a lot of experimenting this season. In the last few games he has been leaning more and more towards sophomore talent. Two of these sophs will be in the lineup tonight. They are: John Allen, 6-2, 205-pound guard and Dick Houghteling, 6-0 forward.

TWO LETTERMEN

Ziemke has two lettermen—Bob Beeker and Bob Beck. Beeker is a 6-2 center but has little scoring power while Beck has missed several games with a sprained ankle. Beck may be in uniform against the Tygers but probably will not play. He is playing as a regular for the third straight season.

The rest of the Ross varsity played reserve ball last year. Dick Sherman, Bill Titsworth, Charley Glover and Tom Lee were on the squad which lost to the Tyger cubs, 31 to 30. Sherman, who counted 14 points in that game, has been averaging about 10 points for the Ross varsity.

Tyger Coach Vern Hoffman will go along with the same lineup which edged Akron North Saturday, 40 to 37. That would put Ed Schmitt and Jimmy Anderson at the forwards, Big Norb Shibinski at center and Paul Ferguson and Ken McCally at guards.

DEMYAN IS BACK

Letterman Ed Demyan, who was ineligible last week, has been reinstated. The 6-2 junior missed practice while trying to bring his grades up and will see limited service as a replacement for Schmitt.

★

The two Senior high cage squads were scheduled to leave from the high school at 4:15 p. m. today. The Bengal Cubs have won nine of 10 games.

★

Although held to his lowest total of the season Saturday, Anderson continues to pace the Bengal scoring with 147 points. Shibinski is just five behind

Penn Quint Knocks Off Ohio Sports

Penn Auto-Sporting Goods, which has languished near the bottom of the City A league all year, knocked the props from under Ohio Sport Center, 49-42, at John Simpson last night.

Sport Center won the first half championship and was undefeated in the second half race. Three teams, Penn Auto, Rogers Jewelry and Sport Center, are now tied with one defeat each.

Rogers turned back Richland Beverage, 43-35, last night while Martin Hardware hung a defeat on Komito's, 41-38, in the other game. The latter game was an overtime with Russ Hoff and Jake Lyons scoring field goals to win for Martin's. Kenny Windsor got Komito's only points on two free throws.

Top point producer of the night was Don Rowe of Rogers Jewelry ripped the nets for 19 points.

Three Church Games Booked

Three games in the Senior Church basketball league are scheduled tonight on the YMCA floor beginning at 7 p. m.

St. Matthew's and Ontario Community open the card, followed by the Park Avenue Baptist-United Brethren and First Methodist-First Christian games. The Methodists won the first round title with six straight wins while the Baptists copped five of six.

Lucas Lutheran draws a bye tonight.

Frisco Owner Gives Warning

SAN FRANCISCO —(UP)— The professional football battle between the all-American conference and the National league took on renewed vigor as Anthony Morabito, president of the San Francisco Forty-Niners of the AAC, warned the Nationals of a "battle to the end."

Returning empty-handed from the so-called Chicago "peace-meetings." Morabito rapped the "petty National league owners," who "blocked every attempt for peace" between the two warring leagues.

"They have asked for a battle—and they're going to get it," said Morabito. "We won't go to them again. They'll have to come to us. So far they haven't given any indication of wanting peace—all they want is complete capitulation."

Hilborn Runs Honor Roll Streak to Four

If so many others didn't fail where he succeeds, Mansfield bowlers would begin to accuse Colony Manager Art Hilborn of doctoring the tenpins.

Art last night continued his amazing bowling streak by racking up his fourth consecutive 600 series in league play. He scattered the maples for 242-192-222—656 for the Optimists' team in the Club to rate easily as the best performer of the night.

That makes Art's personal scoreboard for his last four nights of league bowling: 637-627-625-656. He is scheduled to roll in the Elks league at 8:30 p. m. tonight.

Two other honor roll scores—one in the Club league — was turned in. Fritz Schnittke banged out 211-206-207—624 for the Doherty's team.

Robert Littler was next in line with a 222 single game and 588 series while D. Dalton had a 565 total. S. B. Hetler had 560, Jim Will, 554, and Pete Linster, 552.

★

Urschel Insurance took over first place in the Commercial C league last night by sweeping three games from Wolford funeral home. Local 17 was ousted from the top as it dropped a trio to the Orphans.

One of the main causes in the shakeup was D. Bormuth of the Orphans who fired 173-201-226—600. Leading single game, however, went to R. Faulk, also of the Orphans, with a 228. He had a 560 total.

Other good scores in the league were by: E. Spahr, Montgomery Ward, 578; Charles Bauer, Mansfield Tire, 577; and Fred Carver, Barnes Meat, 575.

★

Arlene Peters saved a good chunk of the honors for women bowlers by concocting a fine 579 in the Women's Variety league. Rolling in the anchor spot for Wilson Auto Sales, Arlene had games of 223, 170 and 186.

Second spot went to Mary Thodosoff, South Boulevards Market, with 164-170-170—504. Others: Elizabeth Shannon, Pendleton's Market, 479; Dorothy McDevitt, Farmers Market, 488; Mary Campbell, Wilson, 469; Martha Dye, Mitsch's Corner Store, 469; Betty Bishop, Mitsch's 469, and Ann Reiter, Waldman Meats, 467.

Pendleton's, Stone's Grill and Wilson each won three games. Wilson had 2,287.

★

Only an "off" initial game kept Dale Cleckner from hitting the honor roll in the Richland A league. The Richland manager led off with the low 160 but came back with games of 216 and 220 for a 596 total. He bowls in the lead-off spot for Kosak Distributors.

Orlie Grable, Richland, was second with 177-187-202—566 while W. Young, Oak Park Tavern, had 163-209-183 — 555. Others: P. Hergatt, Ideal Tavern, 552; M. Boyle, Wonder Bread, 542 and R. Kinton, Frank Williams, 540. Boyle had a 224.

Williams, Richland and Kozak all recorded three-game sweeps. Kozak topped the teams with 2,580.

★

Lead in the Richland C league went to John Wolf, Vet Cabs, with 164-233-148—545. Bob Boyd, News-Journal No. 2, trailed with 215-166-147 — 528. Others: Marty Pahls, Mansfield Lumber, 521; J. Rhoads, Charm Fashion, 502 and B. Schenk, Schenk's, 501.

Schenk had a 226 and Pahls, 222.

Saltzgaber Drilling and Fashions nabbed the only sweeps.

★

Earl Turner led Gorman-Rupp leaguers with a 568 on games of 166, 202, and 200. Dean Hahn had 536 and D. Bachman 525.

★

Betty Altman led Mansfield Tire with a 403 and was followed by Marcella Glories, 400. Hazel Zartman had 398. Yvonne Act, 396, and Joanne Jones, 394.

Ring Tourney Entry List Up To 20 Boxers

Entry list for the second annual Friendly House-40 et 8 amateur boxing tournament swelled to 20 today with the receipts of blanks from 11 more fighters.

The latest influx of Simon pure ringsmiths came from the Friendly House, Galion and Ashland. The rink tourney will be staged Jan. 31 and Feb. 1 at the F-H gym. Deadline for entries is Thursday of this week.

Bill Eberhardt became the ninth Mansfield lad in the competition when he entered the open welterweight division. Eberhardt made his first ring appearance in over a year last week when he won a decision on the AAU card at the F-H.

FOUR VETERANS

Four Galion youngsters, who fought on last week's card, also signed today. The group included: Charles Farina, open middleweight; Billy LaRue, novice welterweight; Howard Kochheiser, novice lightweight, and Howard Dickson, novice featherweight.

Other entries were: Al Treisch, Galion, open flyweight; Sam Stevens, Galion, novice bantamweight; Eddie Williams, Ashland, open middleweight; Jim Reynolds, Ashland, novice welterweight; Eddie Anderson, Ashland, novice bantamweight, and Roland Scott, Ashland, novice bantamweight.

Treisch is a defending champion in the tourney.

Texas Rivals Tie For First In Long Beach Golf Meet

LONG BEACH, Calif. —(AP)— Ben Hogan and Jimmy Demaret have been rivals for golfing gold and laurels for more than a decade, but for the first time today they meet in a playoff for a pot of money.

Because they wound up in a tie for the top spot of the inaugural $10,000 Long Beach open yesterday with 72-hole scores of 272, they must match skill over the 18-hole route to see who gets the $2,000 first money or pockets the $1,400 second prize.

Demaret forged in front with a five-under par 66 in the final round. And Dauntless Benny, needing a birdie four on the 18th green to gain a tie, sank a money putt estimated between 12 and 15 feet.

Tied at 274 were Jack Burke jr., White Plains, N. Y., who led the field going into the final 18 holes, and Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, who shot a spectacular 64 to tie the course competitive record established in 1937 by Jimmy Thomson.

Rams Battle Crestliners Cage Squad

Madison's Rams will be out to break a two-game losing streak tonight when it invades Crestline for a meeting with the Crawford county quintet.

The Rams have lost four of ten games and both of the losses have come in strings of two. Earlier in the season, Madison fell before Akron South and Willard in succession and last week lost to Fredericktown and Kenton.

Two bus-loads will comprise the Madison invasion party—one loaded with players and one with students. Both busses are scheduled to leave the school at 6 p. m. for the 7 p. m. reserve game.

BEST CONDITION

Coach Blaine Dowler's Rams are in their best physical condition since before the holidays as Center Joe Distl is over his various miseries and the other starters—Jim Brightbill, "Dutch" Bader, Larry Secrist, and Ed Chelski—are all in good condition.

Crestline has won two of three Northern Ohio league games. The two teams are scheduled for a return engagement a week from Friday on the Madison court.

Johnny Johnson, 6-3 center, and Forward Glen Miller are the leading lights of the Crestline attack.

Bearden's Fans Boost Gene For Higher Earnings

CLEVELAND —(INS)— If some 500 sports writers and other baseball enthusiasts have anything to say about it, Gene Bearden, ace Cleveland Indian southpaw, will get a big boost in salary for the 1949 season.

During the Baseball Writers' "Ribs and Roast" banquet in Cleveland last night, Tribe President Bill Veeck suffered financial pains everytime something complimentary was said about Bearden, who is not yet signed to a 1949 contract.

The former Navy veteran, honored as the "Indian of the Year," nudged Veeck at each tribute last night as if to say:

"These guys think I'm worth plenty."

Bearden was presented with a television set, an outboard motor and a wrist watch as the feature of the program.

McLish's Ambidextrous Aspirant

By CARTER BRADLEY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. — (UP) — Calvin Coolidge McLish, who can throw a baseball with either arm, was dreaming today of becoming the major leagues' first successful ambidextrous pitcher since 1887.

McLish, back in the majors for another trial with the Chicago Cubs has yet to prove that he can win games with either arm. His first big goal is to pitch well enough to stick with the Cubs and the "great experiment" can come later.

"I've got to prove to Manager Charley Grimm that I can throw with my right arm, which is my natural one, first of all," he said. "I had a pretty good year at Indianapolis last season and won 12 games. And I was glad when I got sold to Chicago because I think I can win the majors now."

Just the same he is fascinated by the prospect of operating against a batting lineup with either arm.

The fact there is nothing in the rules to prevent him from devising a six-fingered glove with place for an extra thumb, also is intriguing. With such a gimmick he could slip his glove from right to left hand or vice versa, palming the ball behind his back and never letting a batter know before a windup which side his pitch was coming from.

"I've been able to throw with either arm ever since grade school and I have always wondered how it might work out in a big league game," he said. "Of course I wouldn't attempt anything unless I had permission from Manager Grimm."

Grimm, who had plenty of guys who couldn't throw with either arm last year might be just the man to tell him to "go ahead if you think it will work."

The alternate idea of pitching one game of a double header right handed, the second left handed, also appeals to McLish.

"I think it could be done," he said.

McLish has been kicking around the majors since 1941 when he broke in with Brooklyn. Although he showed promise he never was a winner and after being traded to the Pirates in 1947 he eventually wound up with their pennant-winning Indianapolis farm club last season. He went to the Cubs in a December deal.

There has been no two-handed pitcher in the majors since Tony Mullane of the old Cincinnati Reds of 1887, a fellow who distinguished himself by shutting out New York five times that season.

Axis Sally 'Painted' Two Ways

Lawyers Call Her Traitor, Patriot

WASHINGTON — (AP) —"Axis Sally" was described today as a traitor to her country, and as a loyal American.

Prosecution and defense attorneys outlined their cases in opening statements to a jury in U.S. District court.

The contrastinb pictures they drew:

A radio propagandist who followed the nazi line in a fashion aimed at hurting the U.S. war effort and at splitting the allies.

An actress stranded in Germany and under pressure, who still rejected material that would hurt America and said no more on the radio than thousands of her fellow citizens were saying at home.

The lawyers spoke after a woman had been removed from the jury box because of her opposition to capital punishment.

In his opening statement, John M. Kelley jr., the chief government prosecutor, told the jury, in detail of German radio propaganda programs and the part Mildred E. Gillars, 48, played in them.

Miss Gillars, a native of Portland, Me., began working for the German radio in the spring of 1940 and continued until after the end of the war.

James J. Laughlin, Miss Gillars' chief counsel, called the defendant "a product of a broken home" and reviewed her early life and her efforts to become a dramatic actress. Before this country entered the war, Lapghlin told the jurors, Miss Gillars said she firmly believed that this country should not get into it and that President Roosevelt "was deceiving the American people."

"She couldn't leave (Germany) if she wanted to," Laughlin said. "She had no passport and she had no money."

He said Miss Gillars never had any contact with Hitler, Goering, Goebbels "or any others of that unholp lot."

4 Firms Bid On Construction Of Clear Fork Water Line

City officials and consulting engineers today were studying four bids opened at noon, offering to construct the mile and a quarter water pipe line of the Clear Fork water works project.

Bids were received from the R. O. Darling company of Mansfield; the G. H. Leach company, of Bellefontaine; Christopher Construction company, of Columbus and the Charles F. McCurdy company, of Cincinnati.

The low bidder was not immediately determined since prices were submitted on a unit, rather than a total basis.

The raw water pipe line will carry untreated water from the Clear Fork dam to the filtration and pumping stations to be located at the end of Cook road.

Other bids opened at noon were those offering to provide liability and comprehensive insurance for 62 city motor vehicles.

From the totals submitted, The Harry L. Hall agency appeared to be low bidder with a yearly premium of $1,494.06.

The Service Insurance agency bid $2,140.40; the American States Insurance company quoted $2,252.80, and W. F Untiet offered protection for $2,254 50.

The bids are being studied to determine whether all bids were properly drawn and all items are included before any awards are made.

Court Considers New Abbott Trial

CINCINNATI — (AP) — The First District Court of Appeals today has under advisement requests for a new trial by Mrs. Marie Conn Abbott, 41, and Cyril Gordon, 28, a farm hand, convicted of murdering the woman's husband.

Mrs. Abbott was convicted of second-degree murder aand Gordon was found guilty of first-degree murder with mercy in the mattock slaying of Morris Abbott, 44-year-old Butler county farmer, last May 31.

GOP Chief Totters

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The progress of a move to kick out Hugh D. Scott jr., as Republican national chairman appeared today to hinge on whether his critics can agree on a replacement. Scott, of Pennsylvania, still claimed majority support within the 105-member national committee which meets at Omaha tomorrow. But the list of his critics seemed to grow almost hourly.

Bound Over In Car Theft

Henry R. Banks, of Cleveland, was bound over to the grand jury under $1.500 bond today in municipal court after he pleaded innocent to a charge of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

He was arrested shortly after noon yesterday, about an hour after Harold West, 257 Orange street, reported his car stolen. West said the car was taken from in front of the Dominion Electric corporation on Elm street.

Police said Banks was arrested by Lt. John Steel, who apprehended Banks while he was in the stolen car, less than a block from the scene of the theft.

In other cases, three traffic law violators were fined $10 and costs each. They were Charles T. Steffey, 490 Davey avenue, for speeding; Floyd F. Glick, 527 Cherry street, for unsafe operation, and Paul G. Livensparger, of Vetsville, for failing to signal a left turn.

Liquor Bribe Hints Denied

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio's liquor system seethed with rumors of payoffs today but Claire M. (Mike) Hall, supervisor of Cleveland's wholesale liquor stores, claims he and his men received none of them.

Hall's flat denial came yesterday in an open conference with State Liquor Director Oscar L. Fleckner—the latest of a series of investigations touched off by newspaper stories

A Cleveland newspaper said permit holders were tipping employes of Cleveland's wholesale liquor stores to obtain more than their share of hard-to-get bourbon and Canadian whiskies.

This Hall denied.

"I have not made a dollar out of this liquor shortage," he told Fleckner. "I have been offered money, yes. I have yet to accept my first dollar I don't believe my men have taken any money"

Hall explained that he made every effort to reduce personal contacts between employes and permit holders.

Reds Set Up 'Aid' Scheme

LONDON — (UP) — Radio Moscow disclosed today that Russia has established her own Marshall plan for six iron curtain countries of eastern Europe. Yugoslavia was excluded.

The Moscow announcement termed the plan a "council for economic mutual assistance." Members are Russia, Bulgaria, Poland, Romania, Hungary and Czechoslovakia.

The council was organized, the broadcast indicated, so the eastern European satellites could pool their resources and technical knowledge in an effort to match the successes of the American-sponsored European recovery program.

Representatives of the six countries met "this month" in Moscow to organize the council, the broadcast said. Conspicuously absent from the discussion was Yugoslavia, shut off from trade with iron curtain countries because of Marshal Tito's excommunication by the Cominform.

2 Clubs Keep Tony In Loop

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. —(AP)— It is "wonderful news" for Harvard-bred Tony Lupien that both the Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians have refused to permit the White Sox to waive him out of the American league.

"AIII ask is a chance to stay in the big leagues as long as possible," said the 32-year-old first baseman who was reclaimed from the Hollywood Pacific Coast league club by the Chisox in 1947.

"I'll go back to the minors only on one condition," he continued. "If Detroit or Cleveland want to send me down to prepare myself for an executive post in their organizations, I'll go. Otherwise it's not worth it. I'm not going to sacrifice my family just to play more minor league ball."

Weiden Chills Walter Hafer

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Jo Weidin, the Austrian heavyweight, evened matters with Walter Hafer of Maysville, Ky., last night, winning a unanimous 10-round decision from the Kentuckian at Music Hall. Weidin scaled 210 and to his opponent's 207¾.

Hafer, who TKO's Jack Dempsey's protege in their first meeting last October, never was ahead this time. Weidin floored him five times, all for the nine count.

The Austrian, himself, was on the floor three times. He was wrestled down in the second round and shoved to the canvass in the third. The referee credited Hafer with a no-count knockdown in the fifth.

Bob Feller Plans To Build House Near Texas Town

ARLINGTON, Tex.— (AP) —Bob Feller, the great Cleveland pitcher expects to settle down in Texas soon.

Feller has built a ranch-style house on a 147-acre tract northeast of here.

The place is completed except for interior furnishings and landscaping. Feller is quite proud of it.

"All we (wife Virginia and two small sons) have done is travel," he said as he inspected the place, "and we've been planning this place since 1944."

"I like it around here, the climate is milder than what we usually have in Iowa," he said.

Feller will be in and out of his new residence until spring baseball training starts March 1 at Tucson, Ariz., but his wife and sons, Stephen, 3 and Martin 14 months, will be making a permanent home here.

He intimated he might eventually enter business of some sort in this vicinity. "A guy can't play baseball all his life," he said.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

2 Madison Pupils Rate High In Test

Share Honors In Citizenship Exam

Miss Joanne Beer and Miss Lydia Gross, Madison high school seniors shared top honors in the annual DAR Good Citizenship Pilgrimage contest, Ray G. Wood, director of Ohio Scholarship Tests, announced today.

Miss Berr captured individual honors with a score of 116 out of a possible 150, ranking her higher than 90 per cent of all students participating.

Miss Gross won high place in American Government which ranked her higher than 90 per cent of all students in the field of government.

Also ranking high in the examination covering the fields of Citizenship, American history, American Government and Ohio History were three other Madison high seniors, Mary Banks, Margaret Haines and Reba Stoffer.

Miss Beer who recently was proclaimed county winner in the annual Price of Peace contest, sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Beer, Park avenue east road.

Miss Gross is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gross, also of Park avenue east road.

Lymper Urges 'Carry-Over' Sports In City's High Schools

James Lymper, baseball coach at Senior High school, described and demonstrated the various pitches used in the major baseball leagues at yesterday's meeting of the Mansfield Exchange club.

He said he would like to see schools place more emphasis on "carry-over sports", or sports like baseball, swimming tennis, golf, and badminton that can be enjoyed after graduation from school.

Lymper told how as scout and instructor for the Cleveland Indians in the summer, he looks for size in a prospective pitcher, but places more importance on the man's ability to throw the ball fast regardless of his size. He explained that a man's ability to throw a fast ball is in the "snap" of his wrist and elbow and not in the over-all motion of his arm.

He then described the different ways of holding a baseball in the fingers for the various types of deliveries, including the jumpball, slowball, knuckleball, fastball, fingernailball, and screwball. He said he doesn't advocate the use of most of these pitches in high school and with the younger boys sticks mostly to the fastball, some curves, and change-of-pace.

He gave examples of what a pitcher can and can't do, such as hiding the ball in his glove as long as possible before the pitch so that the better is unable to see how he's holding the ball, and certain signals that he can give to the shortstop to tell him when to expect a throw to catch a runner off second base.

Says Man Has Strange Powers That Work While He Sleeps

A strange man in Los Angeles, known as "The Voice of Two Worlds," reveals the story of a remarkable system that often leads to improvement in power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness Many report improvement in health. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise

The man, a well-known explorer and geographer, tells how he found these strange methods in far-off and mysterious Tibet, often called the land of miracles by the few travelers permitted to visit it He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the sages, which enabled many to perform amazing feats He maintains that these immense powers are latent in all of us, and that methods for using them are now simplified so that they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence

He maintains that man, instead of being limited by a one-man-power-mind, has within him the mind-power of a thousand men or more as well as the energy-power of the universe which can be used in his daily affairs He states that this sleeping giant of mind-power, when awakened, can make man capable of surprising accomplishments, from the prolonging of youth to success in many fields. Strangely, he says that this power works best while we sleep, when proper methods are used.

The author states the time has come for this long-hidden system to be disclosed to the Western world, and offers to send his amazing 9000-word treatise which reveals many startling results—to readers of this paper, free of cost or obligation. For your free copy, address the Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 South Hobart Blvd, Dept. 468-J, Los Angeles 4, Calif. Readers are urged to write promptly, as only a limited number of the free treatises have been printed —Adv.

Business Promised Continued Prosperity Under Truman

Cooperation Necessary, Says Sawyer

Certain Amount Of Controls Due

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer said today business has nothing to fear from the new Truman administration unless "it's afraid of four more years of prosperity."

The philosophy behind President Truman's program, Sawyer said in an exclusive interview, is to achieve a cooperation between government and business that will insure maintenance of a healthy economic prosperity.

"Of course," he added, "we can't expect that in a common effort various segments won't be asked to make some sacrifices. We have to have taxes to pay our way. A certain amount of controls are due in order to protect the economy and there should be a continuation of the voluntary agreements program."

Sawyer was scheduled to testify before the Senate banking committee later today on extending the government's authority to work out voluntary allocation agreements with industry. The secretary wants this authority continued as an interim measure until Congress passes legislation giving the President power to allocate scarce materials.

The present program, which is due to expire Feb 28, permits industries to agree among themselves on allocating scarce goods, and grants them immunity from the anti-trust laws.

TAXES UP TO CONGRESS

As for taxes, Sawyer said the President will leave it up to Congress to decide how additional revenue is to be raised. But in any case, he is sure Mr. Truman has no idea of punitive taxation in mind

What about the business outlook?

"Some soft spots are showing up," Sawyer admitted. "But certainly there's no reason to believe a general decline is in prospect. There is a continuing demand. Perhaps some let down in tempo is desirable rather than a cause for alarm."

Business activity, he said, appears to be in a "sort of levelling off process"

"After all," Sawyer continued, "we've been driving ahead hard since the end of the war and sometimes we get a little farther ahead than we should"

Sawyer said he had heard "gossip" that business is "lying down" because of dissatisfaction with the administration. He insisted, however, that he has seen "no such evidence."

"I think business has behaved all right," he went on. "It has been cooperative It has worked hard, has gone along with the times, paid taxes and produced tremendously."

He said he thought it would be a "mistake" to abandon the voluntary agreements program

"And," he added "I think mandatory controls are needed on a standby basis — to be used if required. But it isn't our idea that they should be used to harass business"

Railroader Dies

BUCYRUS — Francis Stiger, 63, section hand for the Pennsylvania railroad, died Monday in a Columbus hospital of a stroke He had been bedfast a week and ill nine months at his home in Holmes township, west of here

Mr. Stiger leaves a brother, James, with whom he made his home two sisters, Mrs Cora Maley of Bucyrus and Mrs Catherine Mollenkopf of Galion He was a member of nearby Martin Luther church and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen

Services will be in the Munz funeral home here at 1 30 p. m Wednesday, with Rev H E Eswine, Martin Luther pastor officiating Burial will be in the Martin Luther church cemetery

'Stunts' Enliven Annual Community Chest Meeting

the sum earmarked for reserve totaled $21,532.

The central services expenses were itemized this way: executive secretary, $3,325; bookkeeper, $1 665; auditing, $150; additional help, $75, employe bonds, $45, rent, light, telephone, $662 88, printing, postage, supplies, $568.43, replacement of equipment, $68; national dues, $408, training and institutes, $271 45, total disbursements, $7,238 76

A total of $127,000 for 1949 operations will be allocated on this basis.

Administration, six per cent, shrinkage, four per cent; campaign, three per cent; USO, three per cent; miscellaneous, one per cent, surplus, one per cent, health agencies, 11 per cent, family assistance agencies, 13 per cent, youth services, recreation and character building agencies, 58 per cent.

Verbal reports of the other agencies were given by Mrs. C. H. Rupert for Visiting Nurses' association, William Bell for the hospital bureau, Mrs R W. Stevens, dental clinic, Jane Williams, Chest executive secetary, who serves also as secretary and treasurer of the Milk Fund and the Student Fund, and Mrs. Tom Dorsey, St. Vincent de Paul Society.

The stunts last night were indicative of the service given by each of five "youth agencies" to the young people of the community.

For the Girl Scouts, Diana Hale played the "magician," to pull out of a huge box, a group of the girls representing the different phases of Girl Scouting from the smallest Brownie to the oldest. The theme of the skit was "The Magic of Scouting," sung by the scouts and ending with the declaration that "the magic comes from you, the people of the community. Without your help, our scouting would be impossible."

For the Friendly House stunt, a group of children typifying the lack of racial barriers at the settlement house, gave the choric reading, "Let Me Live In a House by the Side of the Road," with many of its verses applicable to the Friendly House program. Most of the interpolation was done by Sammy Kay Matthes, who attends classes at the institution.

GIVE INTERVIEWS

Mrs. Lionel Smaltz, chairman of the board at the YWCA, "interviewed" a group of members who attend the various classes, including the employed girls, Saturday morning classes, inter-racial forum and other similar groups.

William C. Mead, area Boy Scout commissioner, followed his factual report by asking each of four Scouts, representing cub, older, senior and sea scouts, what they learned from their scouting.

For the Salvation Army stunt, a huge drum was placed on the stage and through its middle came members carrying placards telling of the work. The final member was William Muttersbaugh, a member of the blind class, who told of the "fun" the class had each summer at the Lake Erie camp.

The final skit was presented by the YMCA. Two college boys, John Fighter and Thomas Plaut, looking back over the years, spoke of the fun they'd had and the things there are to do in a typical YM program.

ties was represented by gilded statue-like figures cast in silhouette on the stage. The stunt had been planned by Maurice N. Taylor, R Y. Davis, John Fike, and Robert Schmidt, new boys' secretary

A change in the constitution, voted last night, calls for the election by the board of trustees of three groups of three board members for terms of one, two and three years. A board member shall not be eligible for re-election to a consecutive term after having served a three year term. The change, according to Slabaugh, was made because the contributing membership of the Chest has increased to 19,000 members. With the change, better representation of this number will be possible, he said

Officers re-elected last night, besides Slabaugh, were Lewis Hartman, vice president, and Orlo Smith, treasurer. Desmond Walker, a new member of the executive committee, was named secretary.

The board of 40 trustees will include one from each of the Red Feather agencies with the exception of the Milk Fund which has no officers, and 30 other members at large The 10 agency members are H. W Arlin, Boy Scouts; Mrs. Joy Herbert, Girl Scouts; Mrs. James Eberly, Friendly House; Mrs. J. W. Ingraham, dental clinic; William Bell, hospital bureau; Clyde Smaltz, Salvation Army; Tom Dorsey, St. Vincent de Paul society, Mrs. C H. Rupert, Visiting Nurses' association; Lowell Bourns, YMCA, and Mrs. Earl Kochheiser, YWCA

The other 30 are John H. Ashbaugh, W A Brandenburg, G. L. Draffan, Clarence L. Fike, A. B. Grafton, Mrs. A. J. Goldsmith, Mrs Ruth Grimm, Lewis F. Hartman, Fred B Hout, Brooks Huber, Ruhland Isaly, Mrs. Louis Jisa, W. F McCartney, James McConnell, W. R Mabee, Rev Matthew G. Madden, W. L. Miller, Marion O'Hara, Robert Salsbury, Henry B. Sanford, C N Schultz, Orlo L Smith. Slabaugh, Stanleigh, B. Vinson, Desmond Walker, Roy Waxler, Norman L. Wolfe, D. K. Woodman, Sherman Wentz and Russell Yarman.

Members of the executive board, voted in last night by the group, include: Hartman, W. A. Brandenburg and Rev. Madden, three year terms; Slabaugh, Fred Hout and Orlo L. Smith, two-year terms; Desmond Walker, Brooks Huber and Robert Salsbury, one-year terms Brandenburg, Rev. Madden, Huber and Salsbury are new members.

About Women

VICTORIAN CLUB HEARS RABBI MOSHE GOLDBLUM

Guest Meeting Held at Women's Club Monday Afternoon With Fifty Attending.

RABBI MOSHE GOLDBLUM of B'nai Jacob Temple was the guest speaker Monday for a guest meeting held by the Victorian club. Fifty were in attendance at the Women's Club to hear the speaker discuss "Judaism." Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. R. E. Wharton and Mrs. Victor Smith, the latter substituting for Dr. Adda Liffring.

Rabbi Goldblum spoke for Mrs. R. D. Lindsay, who was scheduled to give the program for the day.

He explained the origin and meaning of the religion and described it as being a complete way of life. In his informative talk he said it is a monothetic type of religion in which the individual worships one God, thus making his life more purposeful and more meaningful.

Judaism had its beginning in 40 B.C. and became more complete in its concepts through the years of Abraham, Moses, the Kings and the Prophets. He also told of the meanings of the Jewish holidays.

At the close of the program tea was served from a table decorated with spring flowers. Mrs. Vernon Lawrence and Mrs. O. D. Steil poured. The next meeting will be a luncheon at the Women's club on Feb. 21 at which time Mrs. Paul Cropper will be in charge of the program on "Roman Catholicism."

Auxiliary Has Two Guest Speakers

The American Legion auxiliary, Earl D. McVey, No. 16, met Monday evening for a business and social session. Mrs. Don Leuthner, vice president, presided.

The alternates to the mid-year conference to be held in Columbus on March 5 were appointed. They are Mrs. Clare Applegate, Mrs. Mervin Grau and Mrs. Clara Ruddock.

2,000 poppies are to be purchased by the group for Poppy Day. They voted to donate $50 to the March of Dimes. Three girls from the three high schools in and around Mansfield will be sent to Buckeye Girls' State by the group.

The ninth and tenth grade for the American Legion Essay contest will be sponsored by the auxiliary. They will also furnish the prizes for this group. Mrs. B. Owen Smith was appointed to serve on the bloodmobile unit.

Captain W. O. Ash of the 164th National Air Guard stationed at Mansfield gave an interesting talk on "National Security." C. J. Kalbfleisch, city solicitor, spoke on "Legislation." Capt. Ash was introduced by the unit's national security chairman, Mrs. John Hawbaker, and Mr. Kalbfleisch was presented by the legislative chairman, Mrs. Dwight Maxwell.

After the meeting a social hour was held. The tables were decorated in keeping with the Valentine season. Chairmen were Mrs. Gladys Underwood and Mrs. Paul Whipp.

The next meeting will be a business session on Feb. 14.

Naomi Shrine To Be Guests

Members of the Rainbow for Girls presented a varied program at the regular meeting of the Naomi Shrine Monday evening at Eagles hall. During a brief business session the group donated to the March of Dimes.

In the afternoon 15 members of Naomi Circle convened for a business meeting and afternoon of cards. Later Mrs. Claude Phipps and her committee served a dinner at 6 p. m.

Announcement was made that officers and members of the local Shrine will be guests on Feb. 10 of the Damascus Shrine, No. 11 in Wooster.

Marriage Vows To Be Repeated On Wednesday

Rev. Charles F. Sheriff, pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran church, will officiate Wednesday at 8:30 p. m. when Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Altman, R. D. 2, Perrysville, repeat their wedding vows in a closed ceremony, observing their 25th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Altman, former Mansfield residents, were wed by Rev. H. F. Zata in Monroe, Mich., on Jan. 26, 1924. Wednesday's ceremony will be witnessed by members of the immediate family, including their daughters, Mrs. Robert Shrewsberry, Miss Betty Altman, both of Mansfield, and Miss Jeannine Altman, who resides with her parents.

On Sunday the daughters will entertain at an open-house celebration for their parents at the Altman home between the hours of two and four, and seven and nine p. m.

Family Party Held at Hopps

Twenty-five members of the Class of '36 of First Christian church and their children attended the regular monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hopp, Mendota street, Saturday night.

Assisting the hosts were Miss Thelma Remy and Charles Amich. New members attending the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Grambly.

The meeting opened with a devotional period in charge of the hosts and hostesses, while Emmett Izer, class teacher and adviser, led the prayer. Mr. Hopp, class president, conducted the business session.

Serving with Mr. Hopp as officers this year are Harland E. Ehrman, vice-president; Mrs. Earl Hill, secretary; Mrs. Henry Wilson, assistant secretary; Mrs. Dale Lutz, treasurer, and Mrs. Hopp, assistant.

Contests and games were enjoyed during the social hour with prizes won by Frederick Cliffe, Earl Hill, Mrs. Raymond Bauer, Raymond Holmes and Mrs. Lutz.

Plans were completed for a covered-dish dinner at the next meeting, Feb. 19, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ehrman, 159 Home Road, North. Dessert and coffee will be provided by the hosts.

Amvet Auxiliary Has Dinner Meeting

Sixty attended the covered dish dinner given for members of the Amvet Auxiliary Monday evening at the clubhouse. Losers in a recent membership contest were the hostesses with Mrs. Hilda Shieber as chairman.

Games and cards were the diversion with prizes won by Mrs. Dick Shively, Mrs. Anna Majors, Mrs. Betty Gerhart and Mrs. William Herrick. On Feb. 14 the group will meet at the clubhouse for a business session.

CHANGE OF MEETING

The hostesses for the Conversational club have been changed. Mrs. R. J. Welsh, 641 Davis road, will be hostess to the members Wednesday at the 1:30 dessert luncheon instead of Mrs. Paul Hauserman. "Peace Through World Government" will be the program given by Mrs. Harold Burns.

PLAN DINNER-MEET.

Members of the Christomathean class of First English Lutheran church and their families will meet for a covered-dish dinner in the Parish House Wednesday at 6:30 p.m., according to an announcement made today.

BOARD MEETING

The executive board of the Business and Professional Women's club will meet Wednesday evening in the Larwill room in the library at 7:30.

AUXILIARY MEETING

The Disabled American Veteran's auxiliary will meet Wednesday evening at 8 in the clubrooms.

Child Guidance Club Convenes At Home of Mrs. Frank Poland

MRS. FRANK POLAND, Penn avenue, was hostess to 18 members of the Child Guidance club and two guests last evening at her home. The guests were Miss Miriam Bracken of Los Angeles, Calif., field secretary for Gospel Recordings, Inc., and Miss Ruth Lanker of Youngstown, house guests of Mrs. Poland.

Each member responded to roll call on the topic, "Rainy Day Fun" suggestions. Mrs. D. W. Ashbaugh furnished the program, speaking on "Gloomy Day Psychology."

At the close of the meeting a buffet luncheon was served. The members will entertain their husbands at a dinner party on Feb. 14, the place to be announced later. On Feb. 28 Mrs. Milton Wales, Woodville road, will be hostess.

All mothers, whose children attend the new Roseland school, are cordially invited to an organization meeting at the school auditorium on Wednesday at 2 p. m. Following the organization a social hour will be held.

Annual Dinner Party Given

Members of the Katherine Aberle Guild of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church met last evening for their annual dinner party at the church parlors. Nineteen members and three guests, Mrs. Harry Frietchen jr., Mrs. Edna Stauffer and Mrs. Rev. J. C. Melchert, were in attendance.

A film, "The Spirit of the Sword," was shown by Rev. Melchert. A brief business session was held at which time Miss Muriel Voll reported on the Under Shepherd committee.

A letter was read from Melchert which explained the work of the various women's organizations of the church. The next regular meeting is scheduled for Feb. 28 at the home of Mrs. George Hissong, 238 Rhein avenue.

Circle Seven Convenes at LaRues

Mrs. Olan LaRue, 123 Vennum avenue, entertained members of Circle Seven of the First Methodist church Monday evening at her home. Associate hostesses were Mrs. Louis Jisa and Mrs. C. Robinson.

Mrs. Stuart Baird, president, conducted the business meeting and Miss Edna Swartz led devotions on "Others." Mrs. Robert Hergatt reviewed a chapter from the study book, "On Our Own Doorstep."

On Feb. 28, Mrs. Samuel Little, 125 Blanche street, will be hostess.

Mrs. Daley Entertains

The home of Mrs. J. F. Daley, West Third street, was the scene of the meeting of the Little Flower Study club, Monday evening. She had arrangements of red flowers placed throughout the house.

The centerpiece for the beautifully appointed serving table was a large red satin-covered heart with white sweetpeas placed in one corner. A white cupid of styro foam was placed at one side of the table. In back of the Cupid was an arrangement of white mums tied with a red satin bow. Red tapers lighted the scene which had been arranged by Mrs. Henry Paulsen. Miss Marie Hecht, president, presided at the table. Mrs. Daley covered her table with a white Italian cutwork linen cloth.

Roll call was answered with current events. Mrs. Nell Carrigan gave a paper on "Religion for the Deaf and Dumb in America."

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. T. J. McDermott, Davis road, on February 7. Mrs. Marion Downs will give a book review.

COUPLE FETED

Friends feted Mr. and Mrs. John Schweitzer Friday evening with a covered dish dinner and surprise housewarming. Fifteen members and their husbands of Mrs. Schweitzer's bridge club were in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Schweitzer reside at their new home, 60 Ridgewood road. They were presented with a gift of china from the guests. The evening was spent socially with games as a diversion.

Marilyn Jean Grandstaff Wed to Howard See at Methodist Church

MR. AND MRS. HOWARD SEE have been at home at 318 Harker street, since their marriage on January 14 at 8 p. m. The Rev. A. J. Staats officiated for the ceremony in the Free Methodist church before an altar decorated with ferns and palms.

Mrs. See is the former Marilyn Jean Grandstaff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Grandstaff, 318 Harker street, and Mr. See, who has been residing at 542 Lida street, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry See, Ft. Gay, West Virginia.

George Wentz was the soloist for the wedding.

The bride wore a navy blue taffeta street length with a high neckline and a long fitted bodice which was buttoned with tiny white pearl buttons to below the waist. The full skirt had a bustle back. The dress had small cap sleeves. She wore a pink velvet flowered hat and pink elbow gloves. She carried pink and white carnations on a small white Bible.

Miss Linda Porter, friend of the bride, was her only attendant. She was attired in a skipper blue dress with a light blue hat with pink flowers. She had a corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. Grandstaff chose a wine dress and hat with black accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. See wore a light brown dress with dark brown accessories. Both mothers had white carnation corsages.

Robert E. Grandstaff, brother of the bride, served as best man.

Donald Zents, cousin of the bride, and Gerald McElvaine, friend of the bridegroom, escorted the guests to their pews.

Fifty-five were in attendance for the reception held immediately following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. The table was decorated with a centerpiece of yellow and white baby mums and two three branch candelabra. A three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom was placed on the table.

Mrs. See is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and was employed as secretary at the Campbell-Rose and company, accountants and auditors. Mr. See graduated from Ft. Gay high school and served three years in the U. S. Navy in the European theater. He is an employe of the Westinghouse Electric corporation.

Liquor or Gambling, Not Both

WHILE the Ohio law is quite clear on the subject of prohibiting gambling devices in places holding liquor permits, non-enforcement of this ban has been so obvious in the past that it has been given little attention by those who would be affected by the restriction.

Now, however, a case has come up in Lancaster in which field agents of the state liquor department made what was called a "routine check" of the club rooms of a fraternal organization and reportedly found six slot machines, which were confiscated, and which also made the group liable for revocation of its private club liquor license.

This incident is attracting considerable attention over the state, in view of Governor Lausche's openly expressed attitude toward violation of anti-gambling laws, and it is being wondered if this is a first step toward a general cleanup, not only of liquor sales places but also of commercialized gambling, wherever it may be permitted by local law enforcement agencies.

Except for the protection of persons under the influence of liquor, the specific ban on gambling in liquor sales places seems no more entitled to enforcement than the laws against all commercialized gambling, which are ignored in some cities—including Mansfield.

Governor Lausche, who already has authority to remove mayors who are negligent in performing their sworn duties as law enforcement officials, now asks the legislature to give him similar authority over sheriffs who fail in performance of their duties.

By the way, it was just about a year ago now that Mansfield's Police Chief Jesse J. Schwab issued his "permanent" ban against commercialized gambling in this city—with sanction by Mayor Roy W. Vaughn. Permanency of the stop order lasted through two months—then the lid came off. The question, "Why?" remains unanswered as the responsible officials immediately adopted the "no comment" technique.

Congressman McGregor's Questions

ONCE MORE Congressman J. Harry McGregor, of this 17th Ohio district, is asking "the folks back home" to tell him their views on a number of subjects which will engage the attention of the 81st Congress as it swings into action.

A questionnaire has come through from Mr. McGregor making inquiry as to the opinions of recipients on a dozen subjects, including continuation of the Marshall Plan; preference in regard to repeal or amendment of the Taft-Hartley law; federal aid to schools; government control of the medical and dental professions and hospitals; return of price controls and continuation of rent control.

Other questions relate to controls over production and wages; price supports regardless of supply and demand, and a "yes" or "no" answer is asked as to favoring repeal of the federal tax on oleomargarine.

The final question is: "Do you favor repeal of the veto power in the United Nations even though it might mean severing our relations with Russia."

While it would be impossible for one of these questionnaires to reach every person in this and other counties of the 17th Congressional district, it would be quite proper for all interested citizens to write to Congressman McGregor expressing their views on the subjects mentioned above. Address letters to: Hon. J. Harry McGregor, M. C., House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

Look Who's Advising Economy!

THIS IS ONE for the books—the comic books, that is. Yesterday the Interstate Commerce Commission suggested in its annual report to Congress that the railroads refrain from asking increases in passenger fares and freight rates. Instead, Congress was told, the carriers ought to concentrate on reducing costs.

The ICC said flatly that "much more must be done to increase the efficiency and reduce the costs of railroad operations."

This, from a government whose chief executive has just suggested that the combined federal departments and bureaus increase their rates by $4,000,000,000 in new taxes.

This, from a government which already requires about 80 cents out of every tax dollar and wants more now and still more later!

This . . . Oh, well, a joke's a joke, even when it's unintentional.

Price Supports Require Controls

THE 1919 cotton crop may provide a billion dollar jolt to remind Americans that the system of government control of farm prices is not so perfect as it might be. The government may invest that much in supporting the price of cotton this year, according to an estimate by Frank Wooley, deputy administrator of the Production and Marketing Administration.

This heavy government investment in cotton is anticipated because the 1949 crop is expected to be far greater than the market demand for it. Mr. Wooley suggested it is time to consider government action to reduce production. The proposal can be expected to arouse protests against government interference in the free enterprise of growing cotton, just as wheat quotas have been protested as interference with the growing of wheat.

This argument overlooks the fact that government price supports have removed an essential element of the risks of free enterprise from farming. In the specific case of any crop which has a supported price, control of the production of that crop cannot be regarded as an unreasonable invasion of the rights of private enterprise.

Restaurant patrons are being promised larger portions of meat in 1949— but there is still no mention of prospective price reductions or a return to the old idea of "second cup of coffee free."

And just to think, next week is to be National Crochet week—with hardly a thing done about it yet.

Washington Calling

After the Marshall Plan

By MARQUIS CHILDS

ONE of the earlier drafts of President Truman's inaugural address contained a significant sentence later stricken out. While the reasons for cutting it out were valid, the President's intentions might have been clearer if it had been left in.

In point No. 4 of his outline of the goals of American foreign policy the President proposed that American capital and labor combine to make available to other nations the benefits of American industrial organization. Thereby, living standards around the world would be raised.

Capital, he suggested in his address, should be advanced on the principle that benefits must flow mutually to the American investor and to the people of the country where the money is invested.

This, as the President said, is a repudiation of the "old imperialism—exploitation for foreign profit." The sentence deleted from that part of the message, in effect, declared:

"This proposal is intended to take up where the Marshall Plan leaves off."

One reason the blue pencil crossed this out was because the President did not want to leave the impression that he was talking only about the Marshall Plan countries. He was extending the Truman fair deal not merely to western Europe but to the world.

There was also the fear that such a reference to the Marshall Plan might be misunderstood at a time when the Economic Co-operation Administrator Paul G. Hoffman and his assistants are about to present to Congress a request for $4,300,000,00 for the second year of operation. The most careful and detailed study is going into the presentation Mr. Hoffman will make.

* * *

End Not Yet In Sight.

THE FIRST reports submitted by individaul Marshall Plan countries covering their position in the second year of the aid program showed far too little coordination.

Thus, three or four countries migh show that each was planning to absorb the entire market for textiles of, say, the Argentine. Each was planning to export all its luxury goods and import nothing but necessities.

Mr. Hoffman and his staff are making a strenuous effort to get more co-ordination. In all his talks with heads of state and cabinet ministers during his recent visit to Europe the boss of ECA stressed the urgent necessity for the Europeans themselves, through their own organization, to assume greater responsibility. Mr. Hoffman is confident this will come.

But even if there is 100 percent co-operation, there still will be a deficit in Western Europe in 1952 when the Marshall plan is to end. The brilliant young French economist, Robert Marjolin, recently estimated the balance-of-payments deficit in '52 at $3,000,000,000.

Yet, the American people were sold, and maybe oversold, on the idea that a four-year plan or a five-year plan would repair all the ravages of war in stricken Europe and start the western countries out on an independent, self-sustaining basis.

The American people would be most reluctant to believe that the system of loans and grants should be extended beyond 1952. This is clearly understood in the White House, and point No. 4 in the President's message was an effort to look beyond that deadline.

The truth is that it was not the war alone that brought Europe to its present plight. The economic decline can be traced back at least 50 years.

It is a stubborn, long-term trend that this country is combatting, with the Marshall plan as a first and emergency measure. Wisely and with foresight the President has now looked beyond this emergency step.

The Nation Today

Rocket Research Costly

By ELTON C. FAY (For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON — The race for supremacy in ocean-spanning rocket weapons may result by 1952 in the United States devoting 40 per cent or more of its military budget to research, much of it going to guided missile development and production.

This estimate comes from some military scientists who prefer to remain anonymous, but who are in a position to know the trend of thinking in the arms research field.

Such an allocation would be a sharp increase over the present proportion of expenditures. President Truman's budget messages to Congress recommended a total national defense outlay for the next fiscal year of $15,900,000,000. Of this $534,000,000 would be for military research and development of all types, presumably with guided missiles only a part of that figure.

The President ranked research among the priority items of his military budget.

Overall direction and coordination of the military research program is by the Research and Development Board, with the three armed forces carrying on most of the actual work. The Air Force and the Navy are allocated about 40 per cent of the research budget funds, the Army, 20 per cent.

In mentioning the possibility that guided missiles might account for almost half of the military expenditures within the next few years, the scientists pointed out that did not necessarily mean rockets capable of pin-pointing a target on another continent would be perfected by then.

But in that time the military scientists hope to have improved the propulsion and guiding equipment (particularly the latter) already in use.

* * *

IN ADDITION to the spectacular experiments with the high altitude V-2 type rockets at White Sands, N. M., the military is working on improvement of shorter range missiles. Among them are experiments being conducted by the Navy off Pt. Mugu, Calif., with buzz bombs from a submarine.

Although currently the missiles apparently are launched when the submarine is surfaced, the ultimate objective is to develop a method for launching the flying rockets while a submarine is concealed beneath the surface but able to track and steer the rocket by radar and radio.

The military scientists note that perfection of the rocket weapons is only a part of the whole research and development field.

A vast amount of the work in that field is concerned with improvement of existing weapons and systems of using them, including mass-destruction weapons like the atomic bomb and bacteriological warfare.

While agreeing that for the present the weapons and tactics of World War II must be those used if war should come immediately, some of the more enthusiastic military scientists believe those planes, guns and ships will be "obsolescent if not obsolete" by 1952. Strategy then will begin to be geared to other weapons already known or still in the secret category.

The expanding importance of science-warfare has turned the spotlight on the scientists who have a hand in inventing the weapons.

Dr. Karl T. Compton, chairman of the Research and Development Board, left the presidency of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to take the government job. A scientist by profession, he nevertheless has spent a large proportion of his career as an administrator.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jim Farley Substitutes as Hand-Shaker

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — One of the semi-comic, semi-tragic sights of inauguration was big Jim Farley, resplendent in shiny top hat, cutaway coat, with boutonniere and cane, looking for a seat at Truman's swearing-in ceremony.

Big Jim, who once ruled FDR's political roost, hadn't been given a seat with the top dignitaries. The cabinet, the senators, the representatives sat near the President. Other bigwigs had favored seats.

But Jim Farley, his top hat towering above everyone else, had to make shift among the press and lesser-lights. He looked as ill-at-ease as the naval aide to the governor of the Virgin Islands.

Later that afternoon, 3,000 people plus milled around in the Mellon art gallery waiting to shake hands with President Truman. They had received engraved invitations to this, the most exclusive of all receptions, and they had come from Omaha and Kalamazoo, Keokuk and Olathe, to greet the President of the United States.

The White House had especially asked that the little people who worked for Truman—not the big socialites—be invited. Some had rented gray-striped pants and swallow-tails. Some wore tuxedos, some wore white ties and evening clothes. But they were all primed for this, the most important of all receptions.

Meanwhile Truman was still sitting on Pennsylvania Ave., watching long lines of artillery and troops, the naval cadets and armored cavalry which had done nothing to elect him and which could have been reviewed on any other day.

The brass hats had put their military units near the head and middle of the parade, leaving the labor unions, the war veterans, the Negro units and civilian groups who swung the balance to elect Truman, bringing up the rear. So Truman stayed to the end.

* * *

Truman Arrives.

FINALLY, however, he arrived at the Mellon gallery reception. The waiting guests perked up, preened their clothes, prepared to greet the President.

"I don't want him to shake this clammy hand," said one man, wiping the moisture from his hand with a fresh-laundered handkerchief.

"The folks back home bet me I wouldn't shake hands with Truman, but now I can tell 'em this invitation meant what it said," opined another.

Hastily, the President shook hands with the foreign diplomats, waiting in a side room. Then he greeted the cabinet in another room.

Then he came out into the great rotunda of the gallery and surveyed the 3,000 or more people waiting to see him. Obviously it was hopeless. So, lifting his voice, the President announced:

"I am very glad to see you all, and I thank you for coming. I wish I could shake hands with all of you, but you can see that it's impossible. So I'm going to shake hands with the vice president, and our ladies will shake hands. Then you can all go home and say that you've shaken hands with the President of the United States."

Whereupon Mr. Truman and Barkley held their hands aloft in a clasp that all could see, while Mrs. Truman and Mrs. Truitt, the vice president's daughter, shook hands. Then they departed.

The crowd looked after them. Obviously they could not tell the folks at home they had shaken hands with the President for the simple reason that the press and radio would tell the true story even before they got there. Mr. Truman, they thought, should have realized this.

However, over there was Big Jim Farley, looking distinguished and handsome in his tall topper and neat-fitting cutaway. So the 3,000 disappointed guests formed in a long line and they all shook hands with Jim.

Note — He who laughs last, laughs best.

Free Alaskan Border.

THERE is one spot on the globe where the Iron Curtain doesn't come between Russian and American citizens. They not only intermingle across the border without bothering about either politics or passports.

Ironically this rare relationship is found along the only border where the U. S. and the U.S.S.R. actually touch—among the Eskimos of Alaska and Siberia. On one side, the inhabitants of Big Diomede Island are Soviet citizens. Three miles to the east, their neighbors on Little Diomede Island are American citizens.

All of them Eskimos, their nationality depends upon which side of the border their parents happened to be camped when they were born.

It isn't unusual for brothers and sisters to be citizens of opposite countries. In fact, during the war, the draft reached into Little Diomede Island and took a Russian citizen by mistake.

Eskimos frequently paddle between the Alaskan and Siberian mainlands in whaleboats that carry as many as ten. One boatload of American Eskimos, however, was detained recently on the Siberian side. The FBI also checked a report that Russian agents had slipped into Alaska with a boatload of Siberian Eskimos. Clarence Rhode, Alaskan director of fish and wildlife, was sent up to investigate but found no evidence.

As a matter of fact, a stranger couldn't get far on the Alaskan side without being reported by American Eskimos. These natives are loyal to the United States, in spite of their wandering across the border, and many served in the American armed forces during the war.

Assignment: America

What Number, Please?

By INEZ ROBB

WASHINGTON — This capital is right up to its hung-over ears in the numbers racket.

Take any number from one to 33, and you can get an argument in Washington. The argument has to do with whether or not Harry S. Truman is the nation's thirty-second or thirty-third president.

No one in Washington doubts, after what this city has been through, that our Harry is President. It just wonders which one. Is he the thirty-second or the thirty-third?

And if Mr. Truman regards himself as the thirty-third, as the White House says, and if Franklin Delano Roosevelt regarded himself as the thirty-first president, as some of his old associates insist, then who was the thirty-second president, if any?

Well, sir. This is the sort of great, big, national issue with which Washington loves to wrassle between bouts with inflation and communism.

This is the sort of problem our capital is so well equipped to handle, even in these delicate days of convalescence from an inaugural. And, as an important matter it is receiving what is known as "due consideration from the best brains."

This is no laughing matter, and Congress itself may eventually be called upon to decide whether Mr. Truman is the nation's thirty-second or its thirty-third president. The Library of Congress is already involved to the point where it won't say "Yes" and it won't say "No."

The library is certain only on two points:

(1) Mr. Truman is the thirty-second person to be elected to the presidency, and

(2) Mr. Truman is the thirty-third President in order of succession.

* * *

How It All Happened.

IF THIS seems confusing, don't be alarmed. It is.

Nor can Mr. Truman blame it on a Republican plot. It all stems back to another deserving Democrat, Grover Cleveland, a president chiefly distinguished to this generation as the man whose face is on that lovely but lonely type of folding money known as one grand.

Mr. Cleveland served two terms in the White House, but he did it the hard way, like a split week in vaudeville. Mr. Cleveland was elected the nation's twenty-second president in 1884. He did not make it again in '88, a poor year for Democrats.

Cleveland was nosed out in that year by Benjamin Harrison, who became the twenty-third chief executive. But Cleveland was not a man to cry "Uncle Sam" in vain. He ran for the third time in 1892 and was elected to his second term in the White House.

In strict order of succession, this made Cleveland the twenty-fourth chief executive. But he had witnesses to prove that he was the same Grover Cleveland elected to the presidency in 1884.

And in 1884, Cleveland was the twenty-second person elected to the presidency. In 1892, he was still the twenty-second individual to be president, but in the matter of succession, he had jumped two and became No. 24.

The confusion, which is more than somewhat, stems from the Cleveland split administrations. (In an individual, a split administration is known as schizophrenia. In a government, it is known as calculated disorder.)

The result of Cleveland's political straddling is the capital's inability to decide whether Mr. Truman is its thirty-second or thirty-third president. Feeling runs high. On inaugural day, the Washington papers were evenly divided in viewing him as No. 32 and No. 33, and of no help in settling the argument.

And of course, there is the matter of a thirty-second president and what became of him if FDR called himself the thirty-first president and Mr. Truman insists on viewing himself as the thirty-third. We're a big, extravagant nation, but don't tell us we've mislaid a president!

Farmer's Diary

Wildlife In the Winter

By CALVIN A. BYERS

SO FAR this year, the winter has been mild and the woods floor generally unfrozen. I notice many tracks and considerable digging for buried treasure. Mice and ground squirrels leave distinct records in moist places, and infant-like raccoon tracks are along the rill where a trickle of water makes a fit place for washing tidbits.

I saw a white-footed mouse with a winter home in an old birds' nest which he had roofed with cunningly devised daubing of leaves, mud and twigs. And I remembered the crows' nest at the top of a hollow snag last summer, where I had seen scratching of claws and suspected a raccoon.

That high crotch would be an ideal lookout for a coon, I thought, and walked there. Sure enough—it was inhabited. The whole crotch seemed a mass of fur.

The day was warm, and the sunshine had brought out Mother Coon and three young ones. They were taking a sun bath, like sleepy babes of the wood, while the old one lay near the edge and kept the daringest from slipping over the side.

With one of the boys, I walked up that way at night, and we shone a strong flashlight along the trunk until four pairs of eyes blinked and reflected back at us. They moved fearfully, and lest I frighten them from their home, I turned the light away. Such shy neighbors should be a part of our woodland.

Raccoons are not destructive of farm crops, except green corn, in the fall. Then they may climb the stalk and pull back the husk to get at the sweet, milky grains.

The present raccoon family is half grown or more. They live where wild berries and a nearby grain field will give them plenteous fare. The hollow tree will make a safe hibernating haven for winter time, and by next summer, with no ill luck or interference, they will be full grown.

The cunning masked faces, the bright eyes, the infantlike footmarks, and their quickness in the water make such neighbors worth longer acquaintance. Yet I know that the average farmer would get dogs and gun and kill them.

Try Hudson!..See why ...it's lower...it's better!

Here's the only car you step down into—the lowest on the highway—a stunning beauty with the liveliest, smoothest and safest way of going you've ever known!

The whole world knows that the lower a car is built, the more graceful its lines can be made, the better it rides, handles and performs, and the safer it is.

And now you are invited to see and drive the lowest-built car on the highway—the New Hudson!

The New Hudson—and only Hudson—has recessed floors Thus, lounge-size seats are lowered to harmonize with the new, lower top.

Because you step down into Hudson, you get more head room and roomier seats than in any mass-produced car built today . . . and all of this along with ample road clearance!

But you'll soon find that amazing roominess is only one of the wonderful things you get in this unique new kind of car.* We believe you'll want to read about more of them in the column to the right. Then see your nearby Hudson dealer who will gladly arrange for you to drive this sensationally low-built automobile.

BETTER design· Because the "step-down" principle is so basically right, it enables Hudson to achieve pleasing proportions and symmetric, free-flowing lines.

BETTER performance. Hudson's all-new, high-compression Super-Six engine—or the masterful Super-Eight, perform at their best because this car is so thoroughly streamlined.

BETTER roadability· With the lowest center of gravity in any American stock car, Hudson really hugs the road, especially on curves. Hudson's Fluid-Cushioned Clutch, Center-Point Steering and Triple-Safe Brakes contribute mightily to a wonderful feeling of assurance.

BETTER value: One look, one ride will quickly tell you that here is an automobile so far ahead it is a protected investment.

*The many advantages of Hudson's "Step-Down" design are fully explained and illustrated in a booklet available at all Hudson dealers'

Liquor or Gambling, Not Both

WHILE the Ohio law is quite clear on the subject of prohibiting gambling devices in places holding liquor permits, non-enforcement of this ban has been so obvious in the past that it has been given little attention by those who would be affected by the restriction.

Now, however, a case has come up in Lancaster in which field agents of the state liquor department made what was called a "routine check" of the club rooms of a fraternal organization and reportedly found six slot machines, which were confiscated, and which also made the group liable for revocation of its private club liquor license.

This incident is attracting considerable attention over the state, in view of Governor Lausche's openly expressed attitude toward violation of anti-gambling laws, and it is being wondered if this is a first step toward a general cleanup, not only of liquor sales places but also of commercialized gambling, wherever it may be permitted by local law enforcement agencies.

Except for the protection of persons under the influence of liquor, the specific ban on gambling in liquor sales places seems no more entitled to enforcement than the laws against all commercialized gambling, which are ignored in some cities—including Mansfield.

Governor Lausche, who already has authority to remove mayors who are negligent in performing their sworn duties as law enforcement officials, now asks the legislature to give him similar authority over sheriffs who fail in performance of their duties.

By the way, it was just about a year ago now that Mansfield's Police Chief Jesse J. Schwab issued his "permanent" ban against commercialized gambling in this city—with sanction by Mayor Roy W. Vaughn. Permanency of the stop order lasted through two months—then the lid came off. The question, "Why?" remains unanswered as the responsible officials immediately adopted the "no comment" technique.

Congressman McGregor's Questions

ONCE MORE Congressman J. Harry McGregor, of this 17th Ohio district, is asking "the folks back home" to tell him their views on a number of subjects which will engage the attention of the 81st Congress as it swings into action.

A questionnaire has come through from Mr. McGregor making inquiry as to the opinions of recipients on a dozen subjects, including continuation of the Marshall Plan; preference in regard to repeal or amendment of the Taft-Hartley law; federal aid to schools; government control of the medical and dental professions and hospitals; return of price controls and continuation of rent control.

Other questions relate to controls over production and wages; price supports regardless of supply and demand, and a "yes" or "no" answer is asked as to favoring repeal of the federal tax on oleomargarine.

The final question is: "Do you favor repeal of the veto power in the United Nations even though it might mean severing our relations with Russia."

While it would be impossible for one of these questionnaires to reach every person in this and other counties of the 17th Congressional district, it would be quite proper for all interested citizens to write to Congressman McGregor expressing their views on the subjects mentioned above. Address letters to: Hon. J. Harry McGregor, M. C., House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

Look Who's Advising Economy!

THIS IS ONE for the books—the comic books, that is. Yesterday the Interstate Commerce Commission suggested in its annual report to Congress that the railroads refrain from asking increases in passenger fares and freight rates. Instead, Congress was told, the carriers ought to concentrate on reducing costs.

The ICC said flatly that "much more must be done to increase the efficiency and reduce the costs of railroad operations."

This, from a government whose chief executive has just suggested that the combined federal departments and bureaus increase their rates by $4,000,000,000 in new taxes.

This, from a government which already requires about 80 cents out of every tax dollar and wants more now and still more later!

This . . . Oh, well, a joke's a joke, even when it's unintentional.

Price Supports Require Controls

THE 1919 cotton crop may provide a billion dollar jolt to remind Americans that the system of government control of farm prices is not so perfect as it might be. The government may invest that much in supporting the price of cotton this year, according to an estimate by Frank Wooley, deputy administrator of the Production and Marketing Administration.

This heavy government investment in cotton is anticipated because the 1949 crop is expected to be far greater than the market demand for it. Mr. Wooley suggested it is time to consider government action to reduce production. The proposal can be expected to arouse protests against government interference in the free enterprise of growing cotton, just as wheat quotas have been protested as interference with the growing of wheat.

This argument overlooks the fact that government price supports have removed an essential element of the risks of free enterprise from farming. In the specific case of any crop which has a supported price, control of the production of that crop cannot be regarded as an unreasonable invasion of the rights of private enterprise.

Restaurant patrons are being promised larger portions of meat in 1949—but there is still no mention of prospective price reductions or a return to the old idea of "second cup of coffee free."

And just to think, next week is to be National Crochet week—with hardly a thing done about it yet.

Washington Calling

After the Marshall Plan

By MARQUIS CHILDS

ONE of the earlier drafts of President Truman's inaugural address contained a significant sentence later stricken out. While the reasons for cutting it out were valid, the President's intentions might have been clearer if it had been left in.

In point No. 4 of his outline of the goals of American foreign policy the President proposed that American capital and labor combine to make available to other nations the benefits of American industrial organization. Thereby, living standards around the world would be raised.

Capital, he suggested in his address, should be advanced on the principle that benefits must flow mutually to the American investor and to the people of the country where the money is invested.

This, as the President said, is a repudiation of the "old imperialism—exploitation for foreign profit." The sentence deleted from that part of the message, in effect, declared:

"This proposal is intended to take up where the Marshall Plan leaves off."

One reason the blue pencil crossed this out was because the President did not want to leave the impression that he was talking only about the Marshall Plan countries. He was extending the Truman fair deal not merely to western Europe but to the world.

There was also the fear that such a reference to the Marshall Plan might be misunderstood at a time when the Economic Co-operation Administrator Paul G. Hoffman and his assistants are about to present to Congress a request for $4,300,000,00 for the second year of operation. The most careful and detailed study is going into the presentation Mr. Hoffman will make.

* * *

End Not Yet In Sight.

THE FIRST reports submitted by individaul Marshall Plan countries covering their position in the second year of the aid program showed far too little coordination.

Thus, three or four countries migh show that each was planning to absorb the entire market for textiles of, say, the Argentine. Each was planning to export all its luxury goods and import nothing but necessities.

Mr. Hoffman and his staff are making a strenuous effort to get more co-ordination. In all his talks with heads of state and cabinet ministers during his recent visit to Europe the boss of ECA stressed the urgent necessity for the Europeans themselves, through their own organization, to assume greater responsibility. Mr. Hoffman is confident this will come.

But even if there is 100 percent co-operation, there still will be a deficit in Western Europe in 1952 when the Marshall plan is to end. The brilliant young French economist, Robert Marjolin, recently estimated the balance-of-payments deficit in '52 at $3,000,000,000.

Yet, the American people were sold, and maybe oversold, on the idea that a four-year plan or a five-year plan would repair all the ravages of war in stricken Europe and start the western countries out on an independent, self-sustaining basis.

The American people would be most reluctant to believe that the system of loans and grants should be extended beyond 1952. This is clearly understood in the White House, and point No. 4 in the President's message was an effort to look beyond that deadline.

The truth is that it was not the war alone that brought Europe to its present plight. The economic decline can be traced back at least 50 years.

It is a stubborn, long-term trend that this country is combatting, with the Marshall plan as a first and emergency measure. Wisely and with foresight the President has now looked beyond this emergency step.

The Nation Today

Rocket Research Costly

By ELTON C. FAY (For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON — The race for supremacy in ocean-spanning rocket weapons may result by 1952 in the United States devoting 40 per cent or more of its military budget to research, much of it going to guided missile development and production.

This estimate comes from some military scientists who prefer to remain anonymous, but who are in a position to know the trend of thinking in the arms research field.

Such an allocation would be a sharp increase over the present proportion of expenditures. President Truman's budget messages to Congress recommended a total national defense outlay for the next fiscal year of $15,900,000,000. Of this $534,000,000 would be for military research and development of all types, presumably with guided missiles only a part of that figure.

The President ranked research among the priority items of his military budget.

Overall direction and coordination of the military research program is by the Research and Development Board, with the three armed forces carrying on most of the actual work. The Air Force and the Navy are allocated about 40 per cent of the research budget funds, the Army, 20 per cent.

In mentioning the possibility that guided missiles might account for almost half of the military expenditures within the next few years, the scientists pointed out that did not necessarily mean rockets capable of pin-pointing a target on another continent would be perfected by then.

But in that time the military scientists hope to have improved the propulsion and guiding equipment (particularly the latter) already in use.

* * *

IN ADDITION to the spectacular experiments with the high altitude V-2 type rockets at White Sands, N. M., the military is working on improvement of shorter range missiles. Among them are experiments being conducted by the Navy off Pt. Mugu, Calif., with buzz bombs from a submarine.

Although currently the missiles apparently are launched when the submarine is surfaced, the ultimate objective is to develop a method for launching the flying rockets while a submarine is concealed beneath the surface but able to track and steer the rocket by radar and radio.

The military scientists note that perfection of the rocket weapons is only a part of the whole research and development field.

A vast amount of the work in that field is concerned with improvement of existing weapons and systems of using them, including mass-destruction weapons like the atomic bomb and bacteriological warfare.

While agreeing that for the present the weapons and tactics of World War II must be those used if war should come immediately, some of the more enthusiastic military scientists believe those planes, guns and ships will be "obsolescent if not obsolete" by 1952. Strategy then will begin to be geared to other weapons already known or still in the secret category.

The expanding importance of science-warfare has turned the spotlight on the scientists who have a hand in inventing the weapons.

Dr. Karl T Compton, chairman of the Research and Development Board left the presidency of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to take the government job. A scientist by profession, he nevertheless has spent a large proportion of his career as an administrator.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jim Farley Substitutes as Hand-Shaker

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — One of the semi-comic, semi-tragic sights of inauguration was big Jim Farley, resplendent in shiny top hat, cutaway coat, with boutonniere and cane, looking for a seat at Truman's swearing-in ceremony.

Big Jim, who once ruled FDR's political roost, hadn't been given a seat with the top dignitaries. The cabinet, the senators, the representatives sat near the President. Other bigwigs had favored seats.

But Jim Farley, his top hat towering above everyone else, had to make shift among the press and lesser-lights. He looked as ill-at-ease as the naval aide to the governor of the Virgin Islands.

Later that afternoon, 3,000 people plus milled around in the Mellon art gallery waiting to shake hands with President Truman. They had received engraved invitations to this, the most exclusive of all receptions, and they had come from Omaha and Kalamazoo, Keokuk and Olathe, to greet the President of the United States.

The White House had especially asked that the little people who worked for Truman—not the big socialites—be invited. Some had rented gray-striped pants and swallow-tails. Some wore tuxedos, some wore white ties and evening clothes. But they were all primed for this, the most important of all receptions.

Meanwhile Truman was still sitting on Pennsylvania Ave., watching long lines of artillery and troops, the naval cadets and armored cavalry which had done nothing to elect him and which could have been reviewed on any other day.

The brass hats had put their military units near the head and middle of the parade, leaving the labor unions, the war veterans, the Negro units and civilian groups who swung the balance to elect Truman, bringing up the rear. So Truman stayed to the end.

* * *

Truman Arrives.

FINALLY, however, he arrived at the Mellon gallery reception. The waiting guests perked up, preened their clothes, prepared to greet the President.

"I don't want him to shake this clammy hand," said one man, wiping the moisture from his hand with a fresh-laundered handkerchief.

"The folks back home bet me I wouldn't shake hands with Truman, but now I can tell 'em this invitation meant what it said," opined another.

Hastily, the President shook hands with the foreign diplomats, waiting in a side room. Then he greeted the cabinet in another room.

Then he came out into the great rotunda of the gallery and surveyed the 3,000 or more people waiting to see him. Obviously it was hopeless. So, lifting his voice, the President announced:

"I am very glad to see you all, and I thank you for coming. I wish I could shake hands with all of you, but you can see that it's impossible. So I'm going to shake hands with the vice president, and our ladies will shake hands. Then you can all go home and say that you've shaken hands with the President of the United States."

Whereupon Mr. Truman and Barkley held their hands aloft in a clasp that all could see, while Mrs. Truman and Mrs. Truitt, the vice president's daughter, shook hands. Then they departed.

The crowd looked after them. Obviously they could not tell the folks at home they had shaken hands with the President for the simple reason that the press and radio would tell the true story even before they got there. Mr. Truman, they thought, should have realized this.

However, over there was Big Jim Farley, looking distinguished and handsome in his tall topper and neat-fitting cutaway. So the 3,000 disappointed guests formed in a long line and they all shook hands with Jim.

Note — He who laughs last, laughs best.

Free Alaskan Border.

THERE is one spot on the globe where the Iron Curtain doesn't come between Russian and American citizens. They not only intermingle across the border without bothering about either politics or passports.

Ironically this rare relationship is found along the only border where the U. S. and the U.S.S.R. actually touch—among the Eskimos of Alaska and Siberia. On one side, the inhabitants of Big Diomede Island are Soviet citizens. Three miles to the east, their neighbors on Little Diomede Island are American citizens.

All of them Eskimos, their nationality depends upon which side of the border their parents happened to be camped when they were born.

It isn't unusual for brothers and sisters to be citizens of opposite countries. In fact, during the war, the draft reached into Little Diomede Island and took a Russian citizen by mistake.

Eskimos frequently paddle between the Alaskan and Siberian mainlands in whaleboats that carry as many as ten. One boatload of American Eskimos, however, was detained recently on the Siberian side. The FBI also checked a report that Russian agents had slipped into Alaska with a boatload of Siberian Eskimos. Clarence Rhode, Alaskan director of fish and wildlife, was sent up to investigate but found no evidence.

As a matter of fact, a stranger couldn't get far on the Alaskan side without being reported by American Eskimos. These natives are loyal to the United States, in spite of their wandering across the border, and many served in the American armed forces during the war.

What Number, Please?

By INEZ ROBB

WASHINGTON — This capital is right up to its hung-over ears in the numbers racket.

Take any number from one to 33, and you can get an argument in Washington. The argument has to do with whether or not Harry S. Truman is the nation's thirty-second or thirty-third president.

No one in Washington doubts, after what this city has been through, that our Harry is President. It just wonders which one. Is he the thirty-second or the thirty-third?

And if Mr. Truman regards himself as the thirty-third, as the White House says, and if Franklin Delano Roosevelt regarded himself as the thirty-first president, as some of his old associates insist, then who was the thirty-second president, if any?

Well, sir. This is the sort of great, big, national issue with which Washington loves to wrassle between bouts with inflation and communism.

This is the sort of problem our capital is so well equipped to handle, even in these delicate days of convalescence from an inaugural. And, as an important matter it is receiving what is known as "due consideration from the best brains."

This is no laughing matter, and Congress itself may eventually be called upon to decide whether Mr. Truman is the nation's thirty-second or its thirty-third president. Feeling runs high. On inaugural day, the Washington papers were evenly divided in viewing him as No. 32 and No. 33, and of no help in settling the argument.

And of course, there is the matter of a thirty-second president and what became of him if FDR called himself the thirty-first president and Mr. Truman insists on viewing himself as the thirty-third. We're a big, extravagant nation, but don't tell us we've mislaid a president!

Boys Town International

The kind eyes of the late Monsignor Edward J. Flanagan would brighten in that warm manner which was so typical of him if he could know that the principles of his Boys Town are being put to work in the enormous task of reclamation among the youth of Italy.

Seven such institutions have been set up, to teach Italian boys a useful trade and to encourage them in self-government.

Its acceptance, not only throughout the United States but in other parts of the world as well, represents achievement of the goals toward which he strove during his life.

Father Flanagan would be pleased to know that Boys Town has become an international reality.—Toledo Blade.

As Cerf Tells It

"It won't be long now before the Russians have that atom bomb," boasted the reporter from the Worker. "In about five years a dozen agents will pack bombs in suitcases, travel inconspicuously to the various capitals of decaying western democracies, and, boom! that will be that!" "Ridiculous," scoffed the News man. "Where do you think they're going to get the suitcases?"

Farmer's Diary

Wildlife In the Winter

By CALVIN A. BYERS

SO FAR this year, the winter has been mild and the woods floor generally unfrozen. I notice many tracks and considerable digging for buried treasure. Mice and ground squirrels leave distinct records in moist places, and infant-like raccoon tracks are along the rill where a trickle of water makes a fit place for washing tidbits.

I saw a white-footed mouse with a winter home in an old birds' nest which he had roofed with cunningly devised daubing of leaves, mud and twigs. And I remembered the crows' nest at the top of a hollow snag last summer, where I had seen scratching of claws and suspected a raccoon.

That high crotch would be an ideal lookout for a coon, I thought, and walked there. Sure enough—it was inhabited. The whole crotch seemed a mass of fur.

The day was warm, and the sunshine had brought out Mother Coon and three young ones. They were taking a sun bath, like sleepy babes of the wood, while the old one lay near the edge and kept the daringest from slipping over the side.

With one of the boys, I walked up that way at night, and we shone a strong flashlight along the trunk until four pairs of eyes blinked and reflected back at us. They moved fearfully, and lest I frighten them from their home, I turned the light away. Such shy neighbors should be a part of our woodland.

Raccoons are not destructive of farm crops, except green corn, in the fall. Then they may climb the stalk and pull back the husk to get at the sweet, milky grains.

The present raccoon family is half grown or more. They live where wild berries and a nearby grain field will give them plenteous fare. The hollow tree will make a safe hibernating haven for winter time, and by next summer, with no ill luck or interference, they will be full grown.

The cunning masked faces, the bright eyes, the infantlike footmarks, and their quickness in the water make such neighbors worth longer acquaintance. Yet I know that the average farmer would get dogs and gun and kill them.

Try Hudson!..See why

...it's lower...it's better!

Here's the only car you step down into—the lowest on the highway—a stunning beauty with the liveliest, smoothest and safest way of going you've ever known!

The whole world knows that the lower a car is built, the more graceful its lines can be made, the better it rides, handles and performs, and the safer it is

And now you are invited to see and drive the lowest-built car on the highway—the New Hudson!

The New Hudson—and only Hudson—has recessed floors Thus, lounge-size seats are lowered to harmonize with the new, lower top

Because you step down into Hudson, you get more head room and roomier seats than in any mass-produced car built today . . . and all of this along with ample road clearance!

But you'll soon find that amazing roominess is only one of the wonderful things you get in this unique new kind of car.* We believe you'll want to read about more of them in the column to the right. Then see your nearby Hudson dealer who will gladly arrange for you to drive this sensationally low-built automobile.

BETTER design: Because the "step-down" principle is so basically right, it enables Hudson to achieve pleasing proportions and symmetric, free-flowing lines.

BETTER performance. Hudson's all-new, high-compression Super-Six engine—or the masterful Super-Eight, perform at their best because this car is so thoroughly streamlined.

BETTER roadability. With the lowest center of gravity in any American stock car, Hudson really hugs the road, especially on curves. Hudson's Fluid-Cushioned Clutch, Center-Point Steering and Triple-Safe Brakes contribute mightily to a wonderful feeling of assurance.

BETTER value: One look, one ride will quickly tell you that here is an automobile so far ahead it is a protected investment.

*The many advantages of Hudson's "Step-Down" design are fully explained and illustrated in a booklet available at all Hudson dealers

Optional on all models at extra cost.

NEW Hudson

The only car you step down into

Come in, drive the New Hudson with Drive-Master Transmission — no clutch pushing or gear shifting in forward speeds — all-new, high-compression Super-Six, or masterful Super-Eight engine — Super-Cushion tires — and more than 20 other important features!
